Session 1929 — 128th of the General Assembly

Vol. 11 — HARRISBURG, PA., TUESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1929. — No. 1

SENATE

TUESDAY, JANUARY 1, 1929, 12 O'CLOCK M.

This being the day and hour fixed by the Constitution for the meeting of the General Assembly, the members of the Senate, together with the Senators-elect chosen at the last general election held on November 6, 1927, assembled in the Senate Chamber.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Arthur H. James) called the Senate to order at 12 o'clock noon.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. W. Hall, offered the following prayer:

Our Father, we come to Thee on the threshold of this New Year with all its privileges, responsibilities and opportunities. We know not what is before us but we have had some experience. In the last year that has rolled into Eternity these opportunities have gone never to return, like the fallen star that never returns to its orbit.

We come to Thee very grateful indeed for all the past blessings, for the adverse things as well as the joyful, bright things that have come into our lives—for, somehow or other, these disappointments and these pains and these adverse providences develop within us our better selves. We are conscious we are dependent upon Thee; and, with all the sorrows that may have come to us, our joys have been greater than our sorrows. There has been more sunshine than rain. We have had the optimistic vision. And we remember Thee, that we may always keep this before us. Thou art good to us.

Some have gone to the Valley. Genial forms are laid to rest that we shall miss during this coming session. We are glad we knew them. We are glad that their influence is still felt among us. Bless those who feel keenly this sorrow this day. That tears will fall there is no doubt. We pray Thee that somehow or other their consolation may be greater than their sorrow.

Bless every Senator here, every new man elected and those who have gone from us. May the blessing of God rest on the Governor of the State and his official family, the Lieutenant-Governor and all the secretaries and officials in authority here in this great Commonwealth.

Guide us by Thy spirit this coming year, for we know not what may befall us; but help us to do our best.

Life is worth living. It is better to live than to think of going. So, we thank Thee, our Father, to-day for all Thy favors and blessings. Continue them upon us.

Give us serious thought as we meditate upon the great things of State. Keep us in harmony. And may Thy spirit rest upon us, and we will give Thee the praise now and forever. Amen.

The PRESIDENT: Will the Senators remain standing and face the West for just a moment as a token of respect for one of the departed members, the late Senator Edward E. Pfischner, who died August 28th, 1928, and our late Secretary, the Honorable W. Harry Baker, one of the most beloved of men in history of Pennsylvania, who died July 5th, 1927.

Whereupon the Senators remained standing in respect to the memory of the late Senator Pfischner and the late Secretary of the Senate, W. Harry Baker.

ADDRESS OF PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Members of the Senate: I thank you for this recognition. The Senate of Pennsylvania stands among the foremost legislative bodies. Congressmen have resigned for membership in this Senate. A number of them who subsequently joined our ranks pronounced the transition a promotion. To be chosen President pro tempore by its membership is a signal honor. My predecessors constitute a long line of illustrious Pennsylvanians. From here they have gone forth to broader and more influential fields of useful and honorable service. Those distinguished statesmen have set the standards of this post high for their successors. I will endeavor to be dutiful and impartial.

When we adjourned April 14, 1927, we had the aid, counsel and leadership of a courteous, experienced and efficient secretary. Little did we think that within three months we would be called back to witness the bearing of his body to the land from whence no traveler hath ere returned. To-day we convene without the loyalty, devotion and guidance of W. Harry Baker.

His untimely demise imposed upon me the duty of finding some one to carry on his good work. The task was sad and difficult. Many capable, competent and highly qualified citizens became available. Pennsylvania is a great State. When of her eminent men and women pass on her citizenry readily supplies the vacancies. No excuses ever exist to go beyond her confines for human material. Invariably when that is resorted to the results prove unwise and unfortunate. Your cordial approval of my selection demonstrates its excellence and gives me unbounded satisfaction. I sought to name one who would develop into a worthy successor of that genial friend who has closed his eyes in death, and who would be acceptable to my colleagues and receive their approbation. This has fortunately been accomplished, and I bespeak for our new Secretary, Honorable A. Boyd Hamilton, unprecedented success and a useful and long tenure. We meet under auspicious circumstances. The relations between the Legislative and Executive branches of the State Government happily are friendly and congenial. There are no aversions. May this concord continue. The finances of the Commonwealth, in large measure due to good housekeeping, are sound and abundant. The State Treasury bulges with adequate amounts for all necessary and legitimate causes sustained by the General Fund. Let us gird ourselves with the armor of stamina and courage to resist all inroads on our policy of economy and conservation. The taxpayers must be protected against waste and extravagance. The Constitution directs the Governor, from time to time to "give to the General Assembly information of the state of the Commonwealth, and recommend to their consideration such measures as he may judge expedient." That information and those recommendations will receive due and earnest consideration.

We thoroughly appreciate the accord of the General Assembly and the Governor. Cordial co-operation as now exists matures into merited measures. Of the three Departments of the Government the Legislative is the foremost and fundamental. Before there is any law to enforce by the Executive, or to interpret by the Judiciary, one must be enacted. We are the direct representatives of the people; accountable to them and them alone, and I favor the repeal of every law empowering boards, bureaus or any agency whatsoever to adopt rules and regulations which may be enforced, same as penal statutes of the General Assembly. They pull foolish stunts and we get the blame. There should be no intermediaries between the people and their duly chosen representatives. This session, much grist will be brought to the mill. Commissions authorized by previous sessions have been studying pressing questions. Their reports will receive careful study, deliberate action and accurate solution. Undue haste is an enemy of legislative deliberation. It is far better to postpone action on needed laws than to pass ill-advised, undigested and half-baked bills. Makeshifts always make misery. No one who is jealous of his rights and liberties will crowd or rush the General Assembly. It is much easier to write a bad law than to repeal one. Far greater danger lies in too many than in too few laws.

From what we see, read and hear, all kinds of wild, weird and fantastic proposals will be submitted. It is a hobby now to have a request or demand to make of the Legislature.

I have a firm conviction that this Senate will maintain its traditional and historic dignity, independence, resoluteness and courtesy. Time forbids me to say what I would like to say. It would infringe too far upon your holiday. May we have a harmonious session, beneficial to the State and a boon to all her people. I sincerely wish you a Happy and Prosperous New Year.

At the 1927 session of the General Assembly the following concurrent resolution passed the Senate and House of Representatives:

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Legislative Reference Bureau is hereby directed to prepare and submit to the General Assembly of the Session of one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, a bill codifying and restating the various existing laws of the Commonwealth relating to Divorce, and in such bill to harmonize existing laws and to eliminate inconsistent, overlapping and redundant provisions of law which appear obsolete or repealed by implication.

Pursuant to the terms of this resolution the accompanying draft of a bill codifying and consolidating the various divorce laws, annotated and explained, is submitted for your consideration.

The resolution directs the Legislative Bureau to codify and restate the various divorce laws and to eliminate inconsistent, overlapping and redundant provisions which appear obsolete or repealed by implication, and this direction has been compiled with in the accompanying draft.

A careful study of the divorce laws clearly indicates the necessity of a codification. While the divorce practice is well established in all jurisdictions and the legal profession generally familiar with all its details and niceties, yet there are so many actual inconsistencies, resulting from a period of legislation covering 114 years, that a restatement of the law will undoubtedly serve a useful purpose and impose no new burdens on the profession. It will also serve the useful purpose of making these laws available for public distribution.

The inconsistencies referred to are largely such as have occurred where legislation was passed in separate form and not amendatory of the basic Act of Mar. 13, 1815. The separate acts were frequently followed by amendments to the Act of 1815 re-enacting existing language which had been impliedly repealed. Actual instances which may be referred to are the provisions relating to the signature of subpoenas, whether by the court or the prothonotary, and the matter of the return of subpoenas and orders of publication which had become so involved as to necessitate the re-enactment of the Act of Apr. 22, 1905, P. L. 293, in 1927 (Apr. 27, P. L. 406) to clarify the situation.

The accompanying draft is submitted as an exact restatement of the existing statute and decisional law with these inconsistent, obsolete and redundant provisions eliminated and cited for repeal. Generally the language of existing acts has been employed, although in a few instances language was changed or rearranged to clarify provisions. A few new sections have been added, but aside from those necessary to codifications, these are based on court decisions and recognized in all jurisdictions as part of the divorce law. Instances of such sections are those for the filing of an appearance and answer and the allowance of alimony pendente lite, counsel fees and expenses.

Portions of the basic Act of Mar. 13, 1815, have not been incorporated in this draft for the reason that they are not germane to the subject of divorce and cannot be comprehended under the title. Such are the sections declaring marriages within the degrees of consanguinity and affinity void, and prohibiting the marriage of a respondent with a paramour. These are all properly part of the marriage law. Care has been exercised not to repeal these provisions, but a bill codifying the marriage law is to be introduced and these provisions be therein incorporated.

The draftsman respectfully suggests, if the draft meets generally with the approval of the General Assembly, that it be adopted substantially in the form submitted for the one reason that this report will then supply a text until such time as private enterprise may supply this deficiency.

The following suggestions are offered for amendment of the draft submitted for the purpose solely of further clarifying the bill and of making its provisions more harmonious.

Section 11. Omit phrase "and to have forced her to withdraw from his house and family."
Section 12. Strike out "the innocent and injured," and insert "either."
Section. 15. After the words "within the county" near the end of the section insert "and State."
Section 28. Omit "in the said county."
Section 29. Omit "in the said county."

The reasons for these amendments are given at length in the notes accompanying the draft of the sections referred to.

At the end of the draft is inserted a tentative section suggested by the Secretary of Health to enable the Department of Health to gather statistics on the subject of divorce.

Under the old English law the ecclesiastical courts had original jurisdiction of all questions affecting marital relations. In Pennsylvania no ecclesiastical courts were established, but the jurisdiction of all questions concerning these relations was vested in the Legislature, the Governor and the courts. The laws found in the Duke of York's Book of Laws contain various causes for which divorces were granted. An Act of 1676 found on page 36 of the Duke of York's law provided that no marriage could be lawfully consummated until after the parties purged themselves by oath that they were not under the bonds of matrimony to any other person living. If afterwards it was proved that either of the parties committed perjury and obtained a double marriage, in addition to the punishment provided for perjury, the innocent party could be set at liberty as if no such marriage had been made.

Between 1682 and 1700 we find acts allowing a bill of divorcement to the innocent party for such causes as adultery, sodomy, bestiality, bigamy and buggery. Some of these acts provide that the Governor may grant divorce, and others make no mention of the procedure.

The Act of 1705, 1 Sm. L. 26, authorized the Governor to grant a divorce in all cases where a marriage was contracted within the degree of consanguinity and affinity according to the table contained in the second section of the same act. This act was supplemented by Act of Apr. 2, 1804, P. L. 453, in so far as it placed the power to grant divorces in the Governor, by lodging such power in the Justices of the Supreme Court, or in the judges of the court of common pleas of the proper county. Before the passage of this latter act, however, the Legislature had, by the Act of September 19, 1785, 2 Sm. Laws 343, enacted the first general act "Concerning Divorce with Alimony" by which act jurisdiction in such matters for the causes therein enumerated was placed in the Supreme Court. The Act of 1804, above mentioned, was a supplement to this act and extended the jurisdiction for all causes mentioned in the Act of 1785 to the courts of common pleas of the proper county. The Act of 1785, however, did not include any provision for the granting of a divorce in the case of an incestuous marriage, and the jurisdiction in such cases was not lodged in the Supreme Court, but remained in the hands of the Governor until the amendment of 1804. This Act of 1785 provided for the granting of divorce either from bed and board or from the bonds of matrimony, on the grounds of impotency, bigamy, adultery, desertion for a space of four years, and to a wife from bed and board with alimony when the husband shall "maliciously either abandon his family or turn his wife out of doors or by cruel and barbarous treatment endanger her life, or offer such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable and life burdensome and thereby force her to withdraw from his house and family." A complete method of procedure was provided in the act.

Under the act no person was entitled to a divorce who was not a citizen of the State and who had not resided therein at least one whole year previous to the filing of the petition.

The last general and inclusive act concerning divorce was that approved Mar. 13, 1815, P. L. 150, which repealed all former acts. This act is the basic law now in force in the granting of divorces and annulment of marriages. The greater part of the present law providing causes for divorce and the procedure to obtain the same is this Act of 1815, as amended and supplemented. Grounds have been added to, procedure has been altered, and jurisdiction has been extended, but most of it has been through the method of amending or supplementing this basic act. The Act of 1815 shortened the time of desertion from four to two years and added to the causes for granting divorces from the bonds of matrimony, the cruel and barbarous treatment clause where the wife was the injured party, which clause, by the Act of 1785, was grounds only for divorce from bed and board. Under this Act of 1815 the jurisdiction was vested exclusively in the court of common pleas of the county where the injured party resided. The Act, however, made no provision for divorce from bed and board, but a supplement of Feb. 26, 1817, P. L. 67, gave the same courts jurisdiction to grant divorces from bed and board "if any husband shall maliciously either abandon his family or turn his wife out of doors, or by cruel and barbarous treatment endanger her life, or offer such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable or life burdensome, and thereby force her to withdraw from his house and family." This supplementing act also provided for alimony to be paid to the wife until reconciliation or until the husband offered to receive and cohabit with his wife. Subsequently the Act of May 8, 1854, P. L. 644, added the following grounds of divorce: (a) fraud, force and coercion; (b) conviction of certain crimes, and (c) cruel and barbarous treatment of a husband by a wife. By the Act of April 14, 1859, P. L. 647, provision was made for the annulment of bigamous marriages.

Prior to the Constitution of 1874 divorces were granted by special act of the Legislature and their number grew with succeeding session of the Legislature until Sec. 7 of Art. III of the Constitution adopted in 1873 prohibited the passage of special acts granting divorces. The Constitution of 1838 provided that the Legislature should not enact laws anuulling marriages where by law the Courts were authorized to decree a divorce. Before the Constitution of 1838 the jurisdiction of the Legislature and the courts was concurrent, but between 1838 and 1874 the former could only grant divorces in cases where jurisdiction had not been vested in the courts.

It is interesting to note that the proposed code would repeal 34 existing acts, a larger number than most members of the legal profession would estimate. This fact alone demonstrates the simplicity which would result from its enactment.

The draftsman desires to acknowledge the assistance of Mr. Robert S. Frey of the Bureau Staff who prepared the historical material for this preface.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

DRAFT OF THE BILL CODIFYING AND CONSOLIDATING THE DIVORCE LAWS.

(With Exposition and Annotations).

An act affecting marital relations; providing grounds and regulating proceedings for divorce and the annulment of bigamous marriages; and amending, revising and consolidating the law relating thereto.

The drawing of a comprehensive title to meet the constitutional requirements of one subject presented some difficulty. The courts have recognized that the annulment of a bigamous marriage under the Act of April 14, 1859, P. L. 647, is not a divorce, although the act of legal annulment is effected by using the divorce procedure: Ralston v. Ralston, 13 Pa. C. C. 597, s. c. 2, D. R. 241; Thompson v. Thompson, 10 Phila. 31. "An act relating to divorce" is therefore not comprehensive enough to include the annulment of bigamous marriages, while "An act relating to divorce and the annulment of bigamous marriages" seems to contain two subjects. On the other hand, "An act relating to the severance or dissolution of marriage contracts of relations" will not include divorces from bed and board. The words finally chosen to express the one subject are "An act affecting marital relations" followed by words explanatory of the manner in which these relations are affected. In niceties of distinctions a bigamous marriage may not bring into being a legal marital relation, since such marriages are recognized as being void, yet actually this is the very condition which follows such a marriage, particularly as concerns the innocent party, if such there be, to the bigamous marriage. It is believed the title is sufficient.

Section 1. Be it enacted, etc., That the laws relating to and regulating divorce from the bonds of matrimony, from bed and board, and the annulment of bigamous marriages are hereby codified, revised and consolidated as follows:

Section 1 expresses the general purpose of the Code and its scope and is a new section.

GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE AND ANNULMENT OF MARRIAGE.

Section 10. Grounds for Divorce from Bond of Matrimony.

1. When marriage has been heretofore or shall hereafter be contracted and celebrated between any two persons, it shall be lawful for the innocent and injured spouse to obtain a divorce from the bond of matrimony whenever it shall be judged in the manner hereinafter provided that the other spouse (1),

(a) At the time of the contract, was and still is naturally an incurably impotent or incapable of procreation (2); or

(b) Has knowingly entered into a second marriage, in violation of the previous vows he or she made to the former spouse, whose marriage is still subsisting (3); or

(c) Shall have committed adultery (4); or

(d) Shall have committed wilful and malicious desertion and absence from the habitation of the injured and innocent spouse without a reasonable cause, for and during the term and space of two years (5); or

(e) Shall have by cruel and barbarous treatment endangered the life of the injured and innocent spouse (6); or

(f) Shall have offered such indignities to the person of the injured and innocent spouse as to render his or her condition intolerable and life burdensome (6); or

(g) Shall have procured the marriage by fraud, force, or coercion, and which has not been subsequently confirmed by the acts of the injured and innocent spouse (7); or

(h) Shall have been convicted as principal or as accessory, either before or after the fact, within or without this Commonwealth, of the crime of arson, burglary, embezzlement, forgery, kidnapping, larceny, murder, either in the first or second degree, assault with intent to kill, voluntary manslaughter, perjury, rape, robbery, sodomy, buggery, treason or misprison of treason and be sentenced to imprisonment for any term exceeding two years by a competent court having jurisdiction (8).

2. When a marriage has been heretofore or shall hereafter be contracted and celebrated between two persons within the prohibited degrees of consanguinity or affinity, according to the tables established by law, it shall be lawful for either of said parties to obtain a divorce from the bond of matrimony in the manner hereinafter provided (9); or

3. If any spouse, upon any false rumor, in appearance well founded of the death of the other, when such other has been absent for the space of two whole years, hath married or shall marry again, it shall be in the election of the party remaining unmarried, at his or her return to have his or her own marriage dissolved by divorce on the ground of bigamy and the other party to remain with the second husband or wife. Any such action shall be instituted within six months after such return (10).

(1) Grounds for Divorce from Bed and Board. Par. 1, Sec. 1, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as re-enacted by the amendment of June 28, 1923, P. L. 886. The divorce laws provide that the innocent and injured party may bring an action where "either party" has committed acts made a ground for divorce. Frequently the words "husband" or "wife" are employed. This draft does not change the law, but allows an innocent and injured "spouse" to proceed when the other "spouse" has committed acts which are grounds for divorce. The word "spouse" is much employed in later legislation and was adopted by the commission which drew the decedents' estates codes of 1917.

(2) Clause (a). Sec. 1, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as reenacted by the amendment of June 28, 1923, P. L. 886. "Impotency" as used in Cl. (a) means "want of procreative power, inability to copulate, or to beget children, sterility, barrenness, incapability or procreation": Sturgeon on Divorce, 2d Ed., p. 66. And a divorce will not be granted where the impotency arises after the marriage: Berger v. Berger, 23 Pa. C. C. 232. Impotency means incurable impotency: A. C. v. B. C., 10 W. N. C. 569; Detrow v. Detrow, 44 Pa. C. C. 74.

And this must be averred in the libel: Luckenbach v. Luckenbach, 39 Pa. C. C. 520; A. C. v. B. C., 10 W. N. C. 569; Detrow v. Detrow, 44 Pa. C. C. 74. The incapacity under the act must be general; it is not satisfied by simple proof that marital relations with the libellant do not result in conception: Larsen v. Larsen, 88 Pa. Super. Ct. 98. In view of these authorities the word "incurably" has been written into this ground for divorce.

(3) Clause (b). Sec. 1, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as reenacted by the amendment of June 28, 1923, P. L. 886. It provides for divorces on the ground of bigamy and is not to be confused with the ground for the annulment of bigamous marriages provided for in Sec. 12. This clause provides for the granting of divorces, not to the parties who have entered into a second or bigamous marriage, but to the innocent party of a first marriage injured by a subsequent bigamous marriage: Ralston v. Ralston, 13 Pa. C. C. 597; Griffith v. Smith, 1 Clark 479; Heintzman v. Heintzman, 15 Pa. C. C. 669. Sec. 6 of the Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, partly incorporated in this draft (see last paragraph of Section 10), provides that "If any husband or wife upon any false rumor, in appearance well founded, of the death of the other, when such other has been absent for the space of two whole years, hath married or shall marry again, he or she shall not be liable to the pains of adultery; but it shall be in the election of the party remaining unmarried, at his or her return, to insist to have his or her former wife or husband restored, or to have his or her own marriage dissolved and the other party to remain with the second husband or wife; and in any suit or action instituted for this purpose within six months after such return, the court may and shall sentence and decree accordingly."

(4) Clause (c). Sec. 1, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as reenacted by the amendment of June 28, 1923, P. L. 886. The cause of adultery need not be defined with the certainty of an indictment: Richardson v. Richardson, 8 D. R. 242. The quality of testimony which is necessary to sustain a charge of adultery in the same in civil and criminal cases. The only difference is the quantity. In a criminal case it must be proved beyond a reasonable doubt. In divorce where the inferences of guilt are fairly deducible from the testimony a decree is properly granted. Comm. v. Mohr, 9 D. & C. 299. The paramour must be named or it must be stated that he is unknown: A. C. v. B. C., 10 W. N. C. 569. Stating the name of the person, the time within a few months, and the place where the act was committed is sufficient: Runkle v. Runkle, 18 York 122; Gillardon v. Gillardon, 15 W. N. C. 528; but a general statement by the libellant that he is informed and believes that the respondent has been and is living in adultery is insufficient: Trotter v. Trotter, 13 York 119, s c. 47, P. L. J. 109.

(5) Clause (d). Sec. 1, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as reenacted by the amendment of June 28, 1923, P. L. 886. To justify a decree of divorce on the ground of desertion there must be an actual abandonment of matrimonial cohabitation, with a clear intent to desert, wilfully and maliciously persisted in without cause for two years: Price v. Price, 83 Pa. Super. Ct. 446. The charge of desertion should be clearly stated, and while the omission of the word "maliciously" in a libel was held not fatal: Shields v. Shields, 17 D. R. 745, the omission of "wilful and malicious" was held fatal: Hamilton v. Hamilton, 46 Pa. C. C. 55. Omission from the libel of "absence from the habitation" or "without reasonable cause" is also fatal: Stewart v. Stewart, 34 Pa. C. C. 543; Hetrick v. Hetrick, 23 D. R. 430; Mills v. Mills, 42 Pa. C. C. 257; Hain v. Hain, 48 Pa. C. C. 621. Under the Act of April 26, 1850, P. L. 590, the libel may be filed six months after the desertion: See notes to Sec. 17. A desertion without consent and without sufficient legal cause is presumed to be wilful and malicious: Hedderson v. Hedderson, 35 Pa. Super. Ct. 629.

(6) Clauses (e) and (f). Sec. 1, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as reenacted by the amendment of June 28, 1923, P. L. 886. Sec. 1, of the Act of 1815 gave a wife a divorce from her husband on the ground of cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities to the person, which rendered her condition intolerable and life burdensome and forced her to withdraw from his house and family. Clause 3 of Sec. 1 of the Act of May 8, 1854, P. L. 644, as amended by the Act of June 25, 1895, P. L. 308, gave the husband a similar proceeding against the wife with the distinction that it was not necessary to prove that he was forced to withdraw from her house and family. This same clause provided that the court should in such cases allow the wife alimony, but by an amendment, April 4, 1925, P. L. 124, the alimony was eliminated. In the meantime the Act of June 28, 1923, supra, amending the Act of 1815, equalized these causes, for divorce as between the husband and wife and eliminated entirely from the law the necessity of a wife providing that she was forced to withdraw from the house and family where the charge was indignities to the person. Cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities to the person have been separated into two distinct causes. They have always been so treated in case law: Smith v. Smith, 68 P. L. J. 817; May v. May, 62 Pa. 206; Power's Appeal, 120 Pa. 320; Mendenhall v. Mendenhall, 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 290; Fay v. Fay, 27 Pa. Super. Ct. 328; Lewis v. Lewis, 63 Pa. Super. Ct. 82.

The Act of March 9, 1855, P. L. 68, makes it lawful for the courts "to entertain jurisdiction of all cases of divorce from the bonds of matrimony for the cause of personal abuse, or for such conduct on the part of either the husband or wife as to render the condition of the other party intolerable and life burdensome, notwithstanding the parties were at the time of the occurring of said causes domiciled in another state," but this act did not enlarge the causes for divorce as provided by prior acts, but simply extended the jurisdiction to cases of cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities where the cause arose without the Commonwealth: Pennington v. Pennington, 10 Phila. 22; Gordon v. Gordon, 48 Pa. 226. The act has therefore been omitted here, as the jurisdictional section will cover the situation. The libel should state specific dates when the cruelties or indignities commenced and ended: Steele v. Steele, 1 Dallas 409.

Cruelty is actual personal violence or the reasonable apprehension of it, or such a course of treatment as endangers life or health: McMahen v. McMahen, 186 Pa. 485; Welfer v. Welfer, 54 Pa. Super. Ct. 215; or such conduct by one of the married persons as renders further cohabitation dangerous to the physical safety of the other, or creates in the other such reasonable apprehension of bodily harm as materially to interfere with the discharge of marital duties: McMahen v. McMahen, 186 Pa. 485; Biddle v. Biddle, 50 Pa. Super. Ct. 30; unjustifiable conduct which so grieviously wounds the peace of mind as to impair the bodily health or endanger the life of the other or which utterly destroys the legitimate ends and objects of matrimony, constitutes cruelty, although no physical or personal violence may be inflicted, or even threatened or reasonably apprehended: Breene v. Breene, 76 Pa. Super. Ct. 568; Bender v. Bender, 86 Pa. Super. Ct. 182.

Indignities to the Person consists of such a course of conduct as is humiliating and degrading and inconsistent with the spouse's position and relation, a kind of legal cruelty practiced often enough to be fairly described as a course of conduct: Melvin v. Melvin, 130 Pa. 6; Dowing v. Dowing, 8 Kulp, 463; May v. May, 62 Pa. 206; Power's Appeal, 120 Pa. 320; Krug v. Krug, 22 Pa. Super. Ct. 572; Mendenhall v. Mendenhall, 12 Pa. Super. Ct. 290; Lynn v. Lynn, 76 Pa. Super Ct. 428. One of the distinctions between the grounds for cruelty and indignities is that the cruelty must endanger life, while this is not necessary in the charge for indignities: May v. May, 62 Pa. 206, but see Breene v. Breene and Bender v. Bender, supra. Indignities to the person signify something short of violence which endangers life: Downing v. Downing, 8 Kulp 463.

(7) Clause (g) Act of May 8, 1854, P. L. 644. A general allegation of fraud, force or coercion is not sufficient; the libel should specifically allege the nature or kind of the force employed or practiced: Shriver v. Shriver, 14 Phila. 170; Hoffman v. Hoffman, 30 Pa. 417; Gillardon v. Gillardon, 15 W. N. C. 528. As to what constitutes fraud, Sturgeon on Divorce, Sec. 239, says: "It will be found difficult, after a study of the authorities, to lay down any rule which will sharply define and distinguish, what are and what are not essentials. Every case must, in a great extent, stand on its own circumstances," and in section 269 he declares force and coercion as synonymous and holds that "only such force as would raise in the mind a fear of bodily harm, or actual imprisonment, will be recognized by our courts as constituting the force or coercion meant by the statute."

(8) Clause (h) Cl. 2 of the Act of May 8, 1854, P. L. 644, as last amended by the Act of May 1, 1909, P. L. 374. At the end of the clause of the Act of 1854 is found the following proviso: "Provided, That such application for a divorce, be made by the husband or wife of the party so convicted and sentenced." To the drafter the purpose of this clause is not entirely clear, but it was likely added to assure that the action could not be commenced by the person convicted of the crime. If this is the only purpose then the clause can be safely eliminated, as is done in this draft, because the first paragraph of Sec. 10, which governs clause (h), is specific that the action may be commenced only by the innocent and injured spouse. An indeterminate sentence for one to seven years is a sentence for more than two years: Singleton v. Singleton, 24 D. R. 667.

(9) Sec. 5 of the Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150. That section cannot be reenacted in toto, because its provisions declaring marriages within the degree of consanguinity and affinity void; declaring persons who contract such marriages subject to the penalties against incest; and recognizing the validity of the marriage in case of the death of one of the parties before dissolution of the marriage, are not properly part of the divorce law. While this section of the Act of 1815 declares such marriages "void to all intents and purposes," and Sec. 39 of the Penal Code of 1860 declares all marriages within the degree of consanguinity and affinity "void," nevertheless it would appear the courts view such a marriage only as voidable. In Parker's Appeal, 44 Pa. 309, Mr. Justice Read said in construing this section of the Act of 1815: "Whatever may have been the language of the former acts, it is clear that this provision puts such marriages upon the same footing as similar marriages were in England. The marriages were not void but voidable, which, if not dissolved in the lifetime of the parties, their validity cannot be questioned after the death of the parties." The above decision, while rendered subsequent to the Penal Code of 1860, did not involve a construction of Sec. 39, since the marriage involved was contracted in 1856; but from the decision in Walter's Appeal, 70 Pa. 392, it appears the situation was not changed by the Penal Code. In that case Mr. Justice Sharswood held that Sec. 5 of the Act of 1815 limiting dissolution of incestuous marriages to the life of the party was not confined alone to divorce, but applied to all courts and proceedings and was not repealed by Sec. 39 of the Crimes Act. It appears that the dissolution of a marriage within the degree of consanguinity and affinity is properly designated a divorce and the cause therefore listed as a ground for divorce. Sec. 5 of the Act of 1815 makes no reference to the annulment of such a void (or voidable) incestuous marriage, but provides that "It shall and may be lawful for the courts of common pleas to grant divorces from the bond of matrimony in such cases;" but it was impossible to include this ground among those listed in the clauses of Part 1 of this section for the reason that there is no innocent and injured party in such cases. Either of the parties may apply for a divorce for the law "was intended to enable the parties to rectify as far as possible the wrong done and to relieve society from the odium of such an illegal relationship": McClain v. McClain, 40 Pa. Super. Ct. 248.

(10) Sec. 6 of the Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150. The provisions of the present law giving the returning party the right to insist upon the return of his spouse and exempting the party entering into a second marriage from the pains of adultery, have been omitted as properly part of the marriage law. Sec. 6 of the Act of 1815, is silent on the grounds for divorce in such cases and there appears to be no decision on the question. Accordingly the ground of bigamy has been inserted as being the one contemplated by the law.

Section 11. Grounds for Divorce from Bed and Board. Upon complaint and due proof thereof, it shall be lawful for a wife to obtain a divorce from bed and board whenever it shall be judged in the manner hereinafter provided in cases of divorce that her husband has:

(a) Maliciously abandoned his family; or

(b) Maliciously turned her out of doors; or

(c) By cruel and barbarous treatment endangered her life; or

(d) Offered such indignities to her person as to render her condition intolerable or life burdensome, and to have forced her to withdraw from his house and family; or

(e) Committed adultery.

The first paragraph and clauses (a), (b), (c) and (d) are drafted from the Act of February 26, 1817, P. L. 67.

The Act of 1817, states the grounds as drafted in clauses (a) and (b) as follows: "shall maliciously either abandon his family, or turn his wife out of doors." To the drafter the insertion of the word "either" after the word "maliciously" clearly indicates an intent to assure that the word "maliciously" shall modify both grounds, and that turning a wife out of doors must have been "maliciously." The present draft so provides, although Sturgeon on Divorce, 2d Ed. p. 256, refers to these causes as (1) malicious abandonment of the family, (2) turning the wife out of doors.

Clause (e) is drafted from the Act of April 11, 1862, P. L. 430.

It is suggested that in clause (d) the phrase "and to have forced her to withdraw from his house and family" be eliminated to bring the clause in accord with the grounds for divorce from the bonds of matrimony as provided in the Act of June 28, 1923, P. L. 886.

A decree in divorce a mesa et thoro, is properly granted where the respondent's misconduct is established in as satisfactory a manner as that fact is ever established by circumstantial evidence: Stewart v. Stewart, 85 Pa. Super. Ct. 39.

Section 12. Annulment of Bigamous Marriages. In all cases where a supposed or alleged marriage shall have been contracted which is absolutely void by reason of one of the parties thereto having a spouse living at the time the supposed or alleged marriage may, upon the application of the innocent or injured party, be declared null and void in accord with the principles and forms hereinafter prescribed for cases of divorce from the bond of matrimony.

Act of April 14, 1859, P. L. 647 as amended by the Act of March 29, 1927, P. L. 71, No. 49.

The drafted section does not provide for a divorce, but for the annulment of a bigamous marriage using the divorce procedure. The section applies only to a second or bigamous marriage and is to be distinguished from Sec. 10 1 (b), which gives the innocent party of a first marriage a divorce on the ground of subsequent bigamy of the other party: Ralston v. Ralston, 13 Pa. C. C. 597; Heintzman v. Heintzman, 15 Pa. C. C. 669. A bigamous marriage is void even though proceedings were not begun to have it judicially declared void under this section: Klass v. Klass, 14 Pa. Super. Ct. 550; but a bigamous marriage must be annulled of record before the parties thereto are free to separate and assume new marital obligations. The action must be begun by the innocent party to the bigamous marriage, and if by the wife, then the libel should be brought in her married and not her maiden name: Hullman v. Kauffman, 4 D. & C. 507.

It is suggested that the words "innocent and injured" be eliminated from this section and the word "either" substituted. The law prohibits bigamous marriages and declares them void. There are cases where there is no innocent party because each knows the marriage is bigamous. Consequently that which the law requires cannot be legally accomplished. The same attitude it is submitted should be taken as in the case of incestuous marriages and thereby enable the parties to rectify as far as possible the wrong done and to relieve society from the odium of such an illegal relationship: McClain v. McClain 40 Super. Ct. 248.

JURISDICTION

Section 15. Jurisdiction. The several courts of common pleas of this Commonwealth shall have original jurisdiction of cases of divorce from the bonds of matrimony, from bed and board and in the annulment of marriages under the provisions of this act (1) The said courts shall have power to grant divorces and to annul marriages notwithstanding the fact that the marriage of the parties and the cause for divorce occurred outside of this Commonwealth, and that both parties were at the time of the occurrence of said cause domiciled without this Commonwealth, and that the respondent has been served with the subpoena only by publication as provided by this act (2).

All petitions or libels for divorce shall be exhibited to the court of the county where the libellant resides (3), except where the husband and wife shall be resident in different counties of this Commonwealth, and while so resident a cause of divorce shall arise, in which cases, the libellant may at his or her option institute and prosecute proceedings either in the county of his or her own residence, or in the county wherein the respondent shall be resident and the cause for divorce shall have arisen (4).

Petitions or libels for the annulment of bigamous marriages may be exhibited to the court of common pleas of the county where the marriage was contracted or in the county where either the libellant or respondent resides, and in such cases residence of the libellant within the county for any period shall not be required (5).

(1) This portion is declaratory of the statute law. Jurisdiction in divorce cases is vested in the court of common pleas by the Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as amended March 19, 1923, P. L. 20, which allows an injured spouse to exhibit his or her libel to the court of common pleas; by the Act of May 8, 1854, P. L. 644, which established additional grounds for divorce and provided that it was lawful for said courts to grant divorces in such cases; by Sec. 5, Act of 1815, supra. which gave said court power to grant divorces where marriages were contracted within the degrees of consanguinity and affinity; and by Sec. 1 of the Act of April 14, 1859, P. L. 647, which gave said court power to annul bigamous marriages.

(2) The drafted section gives the court jurisdiction in cases where the marriage was contracted and the cause of action arose without the Commonwealth and this statement is from Sec. 1, of the Act of May 9, 1913, P. L. 191, which provides that the courts shall have jurisdiction "notwithstanding the fact that the marriage of the parties and the cause for divorce occurred outside of this Commonwealth and that both parties were at the time of the occurrence of said cause domiciled without this Commonwealth." This Act of 1913, is so general in its terms that it appears to supply all prior legislation extending jurisdiction in particular cases such as Sec. 6 of the Act of April 26, 1850, P. L. 590, which gave the court jurisdiction in desertion and adultery cases "notwithstanding the parties were at the time domiciled in any other state"; the Act of March 9, 1855, P. L. 68, which gave the courts jurisdiction in cases of cruel and barbarous treatment "notwithstanding the parties were at the time of the occurring of said causes domiciled in another state"; the Act of April 22, 1858. P. L. 459, which gave jurisdiction in all cases of divorce from the bonds of matrimony "where either of the parties were or may be, at the time of the occurring of said cause domiciled in another state or country"; the Act of April 28, 1903, P. L. 326, as amended by the Act of April 13, 1911, P. L. 60, which gave the courts jurisdiction in cases of desertion, adultery, cruel and barbarous treatment, and indignities to the person" notwithstanding the said causes of divorce have occurred or shall hereafter occur in a foreign country, or in a country. state or territory subject to the jurisdiction of the United States"; and the Act of June 20, 1803, P. L. 471, which gave the courts jurisdiction in cases of adultery, desertion, cruel and barbarous treatment and indignities to the person "where it shall be shown to the court by any wife that she was formerly a citizen of this Commonwealth, and that having inter-married with a citizen of any other state or any foreign country she has been compelled to abandon the habitation and domicile of her husband in such other state or foreign country" after she has returned and established a residence of one year. Sturgeon on Divorce 2d Ed. Sec. 60, recognizes the repeal of the above acts with the exception of the Act of 1893 relating to former women residents who return here from a habitation in another state, yet in Secs. 45 and 1,197 of his work he recognizes that the Act of 1893 is impliedly repealed by the Act of 1913 as to notice in addition to the service by publication.

With but one exception, Beckett v. Beckett, 42 Pa. C. C. 436. s. c. 24 D. R. 37, the lower courts have held that the Act of 1913 gave complete jurisdiction over causes arising outside the Commonwealth where one of the parties subsequently established a bona fide residence in this State: Christmas v. Christmas, 62 P. L. J. 525; Clark v. Clark, 43 Pa. C. C. 36, s. c. 24 D. R. 475; Driver v. Driver 43 Pa. C.C. 225; Begovic v. Begovic, 25 D. R. 12; Mazenheimer v. Mazenheimer, 68 P. L. J. 400; Devine v. Devine, 50 Pa. C. C. 6. Accordingly all of the above acts are omitted and the draft of the section based on the Act of 1913.

But where the cause arose in another state and the court has no jurisdiction over the respondent, the divorce is valid only in Pennsylvania and not elsewhere: Reed v. Reed, 42 Pa. C. C. 387, s. c. 23 D. R. 603; Atherton v. Atherton, 181 U. S. 155; Haddock v. Haddock, 201 U. S. 562.

(3) The statement requiring libels to be filed in the county where the libellant resides is from Sec. 2 of the Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150 as amended March 19, 1923, P. L. 20.

(4) The exception for cases where both parties reside in the Commonwealth is from the Act of April 26, 1905, P. L. 309, see notes to Sec. 16 on residence; and Anderson v. Anderson, 7 D. & C. 491.

(5) The authority for filing libels for the annulment of bigamous marriages is from the Act of March 29, 1927, P. L. 71. The clause of the Act of 1859 supra on bigamous marriages adopting the principles and forms of the divorce procedure has been treated in this section as giving the courts jurisdiction to annul bigamous marriages contracted without this Commonwealth.

It is suggested that this paragraph be amended so as to permit the annulment of bigamous marriages without any requirements as to length of residence in the State. Technically under present laws the innocent party seems to be required to have one year's residence in the State. The law seeks to annul bigamous marriages and not to interpose restrictions. Suggest the words "and State" be inserted after "within the county."

Section 16. Residence of Libellant (1). No spouse (2) shall be entitled to commence (3) proceedings for divorce by virtue of this act who shall not have been a bona fide resident (4) in this Commonwealth at least one whole year immediately previous to the filing of his or her petition or libel (5). The libellant shall be a competent witness to prove his or her residence (6).

(1) Sec. 11, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as construed by Sec. 2, Act of May 8, 1854, P. L. 644; and Sec. 2, Act of May 9, 1913, P. L. 191.

(2) The word "spouse" is used in preference to "libellant" because the test of residence seemingly applies before a libel is filed: Hilyard v. Hilyard, 87 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

(3) The Act of 1315 provides that "no person shall be entitled to a divorce," etc. The section undoubtedly speaks of the person or libellant who brings the action and accordingly the drafted section provides that "no spouse shall be entitled to commence proceedings for divorce," etc.

(4) The drafted section provides that the residence must have been "bona fide." These words are not in the Act of 1815, but in the Act of 1854. Residence as used in the divorce acts means a bona fide residence acquired with domiciliary intent as distinguished from a mere coming into the State with the intent of remaining only long enough to obtain a divorce and then to return to the former domicile: Halpine v. Halpine, 52 Pa. Super. Ct. 80; Harrison v. Harrison, 69 Pa. Super. Ct. 580; Abbott v. Abbott, 75 Pa. Super. Ct. 483; Lake v. Lake, 70 Pa. Super. Ct. 220; Barning v. Barning, 46 Pa. Super. Ct. 291; Goga v. Goga, 5 D. & C. 669; Gearing v. Gearing, 83 Pa. Super. Ct. 419. The courts inquire searchingly into the bona fide residence of the libellant; mere physical presence in the State for one year will not avail: Sturgeon on Divorce, 2d Ed., Sec. 79.

It would also appear that the year's residence must have been immediately previous to the filing of the libel and not at any time previous: Barning v. Barning, 46 Pa. Super Ct. 291, and the words "immediately previous" have consequently been used in this section.

But "residence" is not synonymous with domicile and the removal and domicile of the husband and wife to another State is no bar to a proceeding by the wife if she has returned and been a resident one year previous to the filing of the libel: Hollister v. Hollister, 6 Pa. 449; Goga v. Goga, 5 D. & C. 669; and a wife may acquire a residence here for the purposes of divorce without the presence of her husband: Lyon v. Lyon, 30 Pa. C. C. 342, s. c. 13 D. R. 111; a husband and wife may have separate and distinct residences: Hilyard v. Hilyard, 82 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

Prior to the Act of April 26, 1905, P. L. 309, Sec. 2 of the Act of March 13, 1815, requiring the libellant to exhibit the libel in the county where he or she resided: McRell v. McRell, 5 Leh. 152; Greenawalt v. Greenawalt, 36 Pa. C. C. 479; Huebner v. Huebner, 22 D. R. 636; Priest v. Priest, 61 P. L. 414; Thompson v. Thompson, 2 Pa. C. C. 573; Cain v. Cain, 5 Pa. C. C. 669; Smith v. Smith, 11 Pa. C. C. 465; but the Act of 1905 (Sec. 15 of the draft) extended the jurisdiction so as to include the county where the respondent resides in cases where the husband and wife reside in different counties of the Commonwealth and while so residing a cause of divorce arises in the county where the respondent resides: Woodrow v. Woodrow, 14 Del. 503; Ashton v. Ashton, 21 D. R. 611; Eicher v. Eicher, 44 Pa. C. C. 437; Priest v. Priest, 61 P. L. J. 414; McConnell v. McConnell, 21 D. R. 781.

This section requiring a one year residence as drafted, applies to both forms of divorce and the annulment of marriage The Act of February 26, 1817, P. L. 67, and April 11, 1862, P. L. 439, providing for divorces from bed and board provide that such divorces shall be granted by the courts in the manner prescribed by the Act of 1815, and the Act of June 20, 1893, P. L. 471, refers specifically to divorces from bed and board and requires a one-year residence of the libellant.

There appears no reason why this residence clause should be applied in the annulment of bigamous marriages but the Act of April 14, 1859, P. L. 647, provides that the jurisdiction shall be exercised and the proceedings conducted according to the principles and forms of divorce. The Act of March 29, 1927, P. L. 71, eliminates any requirement of residence in the county, but does not eliminate the requirement of residence in the State. As to the elimination of such residence requirements see notes to the preceding section.

(5) Sec. 11 of the Act of 1815 provides that "no person shall be entitled to a divorce . . . who is not a citizen of this State, and who shall not have resided therein at least one whole year previous to the filing of his or her petition or libel." Sec. 2 of the Act of May 8, 1854, P. L. 644, provides that "the word citizen as used in the eleventh section of the said Act (1815) shall not be so construed as to exclude any party who shall, for one year, have had a bona fide residence within this Commonwealth previous to the filing of his or her petition or libel"; while Sec. 2 of the Act of May 9, 1913, P. L. 191, confers jurisdiction "When the libellant or applicant for such divorce shall at the time of filing the petition of libel in divorce, have been a resident of this Commonwealth for one year previous to the filing of the petition or libel in divorce." From these sources the drafted section was taken.

(6) Sec. 1, Act of May 9, 1913, P. L. 191.

Section 17. Time when Libel in Desertion Cases May Be Exhibited. In cases of wilful and malicious desertion and absence from the habitation without reasonable cause, it shall be lawful for the injured and innocent spouse to exhibit his or her petition or libel to the court at any time not less than six months after such cause for divorce shall have taken place; but the court shall not proceed to make a final decree, divorcing said parties from the bonds of matrimony until after the expiration of two years from the time at which such desertion took place.

Sec. 5, Act of April 26, 1850, P. L. 590. This section read in connection with 10 (d), the ground for divorce in desertion cases, would appear to permit an averment in the libel that the respondent has wilfully and maliciously deserted the libellant and absented himself or herself from the habitation of the libellant without a reasonable cause for and during the term and space of six months, but the decree cannot issue until the two years required by Sec. 10 (d) has elapsed. The testimony cannot be closed until the expiration of the two-year period because the fact of the two years' desertion must appear in the testimony; Stymiest v. Stymiest, 16 Pa. C. C. 236; and it has been said that no testimony may be taken until the end of the two-year period: Brown v. Brown, 6 D. & C. 698. It appears that in Alleghany County the proceedings go forward until time for the appointment of a master and are then halted until the expiration of the two-year period: Hastings v. Hastings, 69 P. L. J. 10, and this latter seems to be the practice in some other counties.

Sec. 2 of the Act of June 20, 1893, P. L. 471, relating to particular cases brought by former women residents who return has a provision similar to the Act of 1850.

Section 18. Jurisdiction Where Respondent a Lunatic. In cases where a spouse is a hopeless lunatic or non compos mentis, the courts of common pleas are invested with the authority under this act to receive a petition or libel for divorce, in which such lunatic or person non compos mentis is made the respondent. The proceedings, except as otherwise expressly provided in this act shall, in such cases, be the same as in other proceedings for divorce.

Sec. 8, Act of April 13, 1843, P. L. 233, as amended April 18, 1905, P. L. 211. The last clause, paragraph 1 of the Act of 1905, provides that "the provisions of the several acts relating to divorces shall apply to all applications made under this act." This phrase accounts for the last clause of this section.

The Act of 1905 is not entirely clear whether it includes lunatic libellants and lunatic respondents or only lunatic respondents. The first clause provides that "in case where the husband or wife is a hopeless lunatic or non compos mentis the courts * * * are invested with the authority to receive a petition or libel for divorce." This portion could well apply both to a libellant or respondent. However, the act further provides for an affidavit to the libel by the petitioner, which would not appear to apply to a lunatic, since no provision is made for petitioning by committee or next friend; for service of the subpoena on the committee of the lunatic; and in clause (c) says that no divorce shall be granted to a petitioner, unless it be proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the husband or wife of the petitioner is hopelessly insane. The references clearly indicate that the act was intended to apply only to insane respondents and it has been so treated in this draft.

This section does not provide a new cause for divorce, but only gives jurisdiction to the courts in proceedings for divorce where the respondent is a lunatic or non compos mentis: Banghman v. Banghman, 34 Pa. Super. Ct. 271; Mintz v. Mintz, 83 Pa. Super Ct. 85.

Section 19. Jurisdiction where Life Libellant a Lunatic. In cases where the wife is a lunatic or non compos mentis, the courts are invested with authority to receive a petition or libel for divorce, in her behalf, which may be exhibited by any relative or next friend of the wife. The proceedings, except as otherwise expressly provided in this act shall in such cases be the same as in other proceedings for divorce.

Sec. 8, Act of April 13, 1843, P. L. 233.

There may be some question whether this section is in force. It was amended in the usual form by the Act of April 18, 1905, P. L. 211, which says that the section which reads as follows, quoting it, shall be amended to read as follows, and then outlines the present proceeding where the respondent is a lunatic. At the very end of the Act of 1905 in Clause E the following is provided: "This act shall in no way interfere or prevent an insane wife from obtaining a divorce from a husband, as provided in the Act of April 13, 1843, to which this is a supplement." This clause designates the act as a supplement when it is in fact an amendment. "When an act or portion of an act is amended 'so as to read' in a prescribed form, it has been said that the section amended is entirely repealed and obliterated thereby. It is perfectly clear that as to all matters contained in the original enactment and not incorporated in the amendment, the latter must be held to have the effect of a repeal": Endlich. Interpretation of Statutes, Sec. 196. The effect of the Act of 1905 was therefore to repeal and replace Sec. 8 of the Act of 1843. Clause E of the Act of 1905 would appear to be of no avail to reenact the Act of 1843 since Sec. 6, Art. III, of the Constitution prohibits revivals by reference to title only but requires such revivals to be reenacted at length.

Sturgeon on Divorce, 2d Ed., Sec. 1112, refers to the Act of 1905 as a supplement, saying that the Act of 1843 was extended by the supplementary Act of April 18, 1905, to the husband or wife of a lunatic, and after quoting from Clause (E), Act of 1905 says: "It would appear, therefore, that a lunatic or insane wife may proceed for a divorce either under the Act of 1843 by any relative or next friend or under the amending Act of 1905, but whether by relative or friend or by guardian or committee ad litem or otherwise, the Act of 1905 does not provide." This quotation would indicate a construction of the Act of 1905 so as to include lunatic libellants. As to such a construction and our conclusions thereon, see comments on Sec. 18.

In view of the above authority and the evident intent of the legislature this section has been included. The words "in her behalf" were inserted to clarify the section since it is to apply only to lunatic libellants.

LIBEL. SUBPOENAS. SERVICE.

Section 25. Presentation of Libel. Contents. Affidavit (1). Any spouse may have his or her petition or libel in divorce presented to the court of common pleas when in session, or during vacation to a judge thereof at chambers (2). The petition or libel shall set forth therein particularly and specifically the cause of his or her complaint (3), and shall be accompanied with an affidavit on oath or affirmation taken before one of the said judges, or the prothonotary or clerk of the court of common pleas, or any person in the county legally authorized to take acknowledgements (4), that the facts contained in said petition or libel are true to the best of his or her knowledge and belief and that the said complaint is not made out of levity or by collusion between the said husband and wife and for the mere purpose of being freed and separated from each other, but in sincerity and truth for the causes mentioned (5).

In cases where the respondent is a hopeless lunatic or non compos mentis the fact of lunacy of the respondent and such circumstances as may be sufficient to satisfy the mind of the court as to the truth of the allegation, shall be set forth in the petition or libel; and the affidavit required by this section shall be taken by the petitioner (6).

In cases where a petition or libel is presented by a relative or next friend on behalf of a wife who is a lunatic or non compos mentis, the fact of the lunacy of the wife and such circumstances as may be sufficient to satisfy the mind of the court as to the truth of the allegation, shall be set forth in the petition, and the affidavit required by this section shall be made by such relative or next friend (7).

(1) Drafted from Sec. 2, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as amended March 19, 1923, P. L. 20; Sec. 1, Act of April 27, 1927, P. L. 406; and Sec. 8, Act of April 13, 1843, P. L. 233, as amended April 18, 1905, P. L. 211.

(2) The Act of 1815 provided for the presentation of libels in term time or in vacation, then came the Act of April 22, 1905, P. L. 293, which provided for their presentation at any time in term time or in vacation. The Act of April 27, 1927, P. L. 406, provides for their presentation to the court when in session or to a judge during vacation. The language of the last act has been followed as covering all situations and supplying former acts. A minor wife must exhibit her libel by her guardian or next friend, but such minor wife is the proper person to take the affidavit: Coven v. Coven, 6 D. & C. 794.

(3) As to the form in which the grounds of divorce must be set forth, see notes to section 10. The libel must set forth the county in which libellant resides: Johnson v. Johnson, 3 D. R. 166.

(4) The authority to take the affidavit is from Sec. 2 of the Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as amended March 19, 1923, P. L. 20. The Act of 1815 first provided that the affidavit might be taken by one of the judges or by a justice of the peace. Subsequently a separate Act of May 22, 1895, P. L. 105, qualified notaries public, prothonotaries and clerks of the court. An amendment to Sec. 2 of the Act of 1815 adopted April 20, 1911, P. L. 71, which reenacted the language of the Act of 1815, as to the officers who could take such an affidavit was held not to repeal the Act of 1895: Weagly v. Weagly, 40 Pa. C. C., 354; Kukura v. Kukura, 39 Pa. C. C. 544; but another amendment to the Act of 1815 passed June 1, 1915, P. L. 674, struck out the words "justice of the peace" and inserted the words "or any person in the county legally authorized to take acknowledgements." Sturgeon on Divorce, 2d Ed., Sec. 1120, considers this last amendment the law, and since the amendment is on the same subject as the Act of 195, the conclusion appears well founded that the Act of 1895 was repealed. The repeal of the Act of 1895 brought into being another amendment of the Act of 1815, namely March 19, 1923, P. L. 20, which qualifies any judge of the common pleas, the prothonotary or clerk of the court of common pleas or any person in the county authorized to take acknowledgements, and this is the language adopted in this draft.

(5) The contents of the affidavit are also from Sec. 2 of the Act of 1815, as last amended in 1923. The affidavit must be taken in the county where the libel is filed: Alexander v. Alexander, 69 P. L. J. 270; Helt v. Helt, 7 D. R. 746; Gambe v. Gambe, 22 Pa. C. C. 23; Greenawalt v. Greenawalt, 36 Pa. C. C. 479; Bush v. Bush, 21 D. R. 744; Bridges v. Bridges, 70 P. L. J. 714; Priest v. Priest, 61 P. L. J. 414; Huebner v. Huebner, 22 D. R. 636; and not outside the State; Howe v. Howe, 29 D. R. 494. The omission of material averments is fatal to the proceedings: Hoffman v. Hoffman, 30 Pa. 417; King v. King, 75 Pa. Super Ct. 19; Alexander v. Alexander, 69 P. L. J. 270; Strohmeyer v. Strohmeyer, 67 P. L. J. 24; but see also Lahr v. Lahr, 50 Pa. C. C. 382; Young v. Young, 9 Leh. 202; Schumann v. Schumann, 6 Phila. 318; Jester v. Jester, 6 D. & C. 318. An affidavit to the truth of the facts in an amendment to a libel is sufficient: King v. King, 75 Pa. Super. Ct. 19.

(6) This clause is taken from Sec. 8 of the Act of April 13, 1843, P. L. 233, as amended April 18, 1905, P. L. 211, which provides that "in cases where the husband or wife is a hopeless lunatic or non compos mentis the courts * * * are invested with the authority to receive a petition or libel for divorce; the affidavit, as now required by law to such petition or libel to be made by the petitioner * * *" "The fact of the lunacy of the husband or wife and such circumstances as may be sufficient to satisfy the mind of the court as to the truth of the allegation, shall be set forth in the petition."

(7) Drafted from Sec. 8, Act of 1843, April 13, P. L. 233, as extended by the Act of April 18, 1905, P. L. 211, Clause E. As to the effect of Clause E of Act of 1905, see notes to section 19 supra.

Section 26. Awarding Subpoena. When Returnable. Upon the presentation of the petition or libel a subpoena may be awarded by the said court, signed by the prothonotary (a) and directed to the party so complained against, commanding him or her to appear (b), which subpoena shall be returnable not less than thirty days after the award thereof either to the next or subsequent term, or to such next or subsequent monthly or immediate return day as shall have been or may be established for such court of common pleas, either by statute or rule of court or both (c).

(a) The Act of May 11, 1921, P. L. 499, provides that all subpoenas issued pursuant to a libel for divorce shall be signed by the prothonotary. It appears this practice was the one established by Sec. 77 of the Act of April 14, 1834, P. L. 333, and the reenactment of the old language of the Act of 1815 by amendment, that subpoenas should be "signed by one of the judges" did not repeal the Act of 1834; McInaide v. McInaide, 8 Montg. 150; Wagner v. Wagner, 30 D. R. 254; White v. White, 18 D. R. 434.

(b) From Sec. 2, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 105, as amended March 19, 1923, P. L. 20.

(c) Drafted from Sec. 1, Act of April 27, 1927, P. L. 406.

Section 27. Service and Return of Subpoena. Upon due proof at the return of said subpoena that the same shall have been served personally upon the respondent, within the Commonwealth (a) and (b) that a copy had been given to him or her on or before the return day of the same, the said court shall and may make such preparatory rules and orders in the cause that the same may be brought to a hearing and determined, at which hearing the court may determine the same ex parte if necessary (c).

Drafted from Sec. 2, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as amended March 19, 1923, P. L. 20, and the Act of April 27, 1927, P. L. 406.

(a) These acts provide for service "whenever found" and this has been construed to mean anywhere within the State and cannot be construed to give the courts extraterritorial jurisdiction over residents of other states: Ralston's Appeal, 93 Pa. 133; Fillman's Appeal, 99 Pa. 286; accordingly this draft provides only for service "within the Commonwealth" instead of "whenever found."

(b) The Act of 1815 and its various amendments provide that the subpoena "shall have been served personally upon the respondent wherever found or that a copy had been given to him or her, etc." Sturgeon on Divorce, 2d Ed., Sec. 1163, says "that personal service is made on the respondent by giving him or her a true and attested copy of the writ and making known to him or her the contents thereof." This is the usual manner of personal service and it would appear that the conjunction "or" is an error in the original act and should read "and." This draft makes this change.

(c) The said acts provide for hearings at the term to which the subpoenas were returnable or afterwards. This phrase has been omitted because returns may now be made to any return day: Act of April 27, 1927, P. L. 406.

Section 28. Awarding Service and Return of Alias Subpoena (a). If upon the return of said subpoena, proof shall be made, that the said respondent could not be found in the said county (b), an alias subpoena shall issue returnable not less than thirty days after the award thereof, to the next or any subsequent term, or to such next or subsequent monthly or intermediate return day as shall have been or may be established for such court either by statute or rule of the court or both, which alias subpoena shall be served personally in the manner provided for the service of the subpoena, and if so served, the same proceedings shall be had as are directed after the personal service of a subpoena.

(a) Drafted from Sec. 3, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, and Sec. 2, Act of April 27, 1927, P. L. 406.

(b) Sec. 2, Act of 1815, provides for service on the respondent wherever found which has been construed to mean within the Commonwealth, see notes to Sec. 27. Under Sec. 3 of the Act of 1815, an alias subpoena issues when there is a return that the respondent could not be "found within the county." This language it is suggested might well be changed to "could not be found" since it appears that service might be had on the respondent in the Commonwealth, but not in the county where the service issues.

Section 29. Service by Publication (1). If on the return of the alias subpoena or any pluries subpoena, proof shall be made, that the respondent could not be found in the said county the court shall allow an order of publication (2), and the sheriff of the county shall cause notice to be published in one or more newspapers (3), printed within or nearest to the said county, and in the legal journal, if any, designated by the rules of court for the publication of legal notices, once a week for three successive weeks (4), requiring the said party to appear and to answer said complaint, which order of publication shall be returnable not less than thirty days after the award thereof to the next or subsequent term, or to such next or subsequent monthly or intermediate return days, as shall have been or may be established for such court either by statute or rule of court, or both, after which the same proceedings shall be had as directed after the personal service of a subpoena (5) (6).

(1) Drafted from Sec. 3, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, and Sec. 2, Act of April 27, 1927, P. L. 406.

(2) In accordance with the suggestions to Sec. 28, it would be well to omit the words "in said county" and have the return to the alias read that the respondent could not be found. This would accord with the direction as to the service of the subpoena. The words "the court shall allow an order of publication" are new, but are in accord with the practice. The order of publication is secured by application to court usually provided for by rule of court: Sturgeon on Divorce, Sec. 1216.

(3) A proclamation in divorce is an advertisement required by law and must under the Act of April 5, 1917, P. L. 49, be published in the legal newspaper designated by rule of court for the publication of legal notices: Mertz v. Mertz, 25 Dauph. 169.

(4) The Act of 1815, and the Act of April 22, 1905, P. L. 293, provided for publication for four weeks. This was changed to three by the Act of 1927. The Act of 1815 required the publication to be "prior to the first day of the next term," but in Banks v. Banks, 189 Pa. 196, this language was held not mandatory as to the time of notice and in view of this decision and the Act of 1927 permitting the return of publication on the several return days, the phrase was omitted.

(5) The time for the return of the publication is from the Act of April 27, 1927, P. L. 406.

(6) The report of a master recommending a divorce will be stricken from the argument list and his appointment revoked where he overlooked the fact that in the publication by the sheriff the Christian name of the respondent was erroneously inserted. Fenstermacher v. Fenstermacher, 7 D. & C. 650; and a mistake in the middle initial of the respondent is fatal; Gill v. Gill, 27 Dauph. 92.

Section 30. Service where Respondent a Lunatic. In cases where the respondent is a hopeless lunatic or non compos mentis the service of the subpoena in divorce shall be made as provided in this act, but such service shall be made upon the committee of such lunatic or person non compos mentis.

Drafted from Sec. 8, Act of April 13, 1843, P. L. 233, as amended April 18, 1905, P. L. 211.

No guardian for a lunatic will be appointed under the Act of May 28, 1907, P. L. 124, as amended April 15, 1915, P. L. 124, for the purpose of making service in a divorce case; that act provides for a guardian of the estate of a feeble-minded person and not a guardian of the person: Snyder's Est., 9 D. & C. 278; Collins v. Collins, 86 Pa. Super. Ct. 43.

Section 31. Appearnace. Answer. The respondent may in any case brought under the provisions of this act cause an appearance to be entered and file an answer to the petition or libel.

A new section declaratory of the existing law. Sturgeon on Divorce 2d Ed. says "When personal service is had and return made the respondent may cause an appearance to be entered, file an answer," etc. It does not appear why this statement should be restricted to cases where there is personal service. Presumably an answer may be filed where there was no personal service.

Entry of an appearance after a return of N. E. I. gives jurisdiction: Everhart v. Everhart, 16 D. R. 791; and the entry of a general appearance cures all defects of service and notice: Eberle v. Eberle, 13 Sch. L. R. 175. As to the effect of a qualified appearance see Smith v. Smith, 15 Pa. Super. Ct. 366.

A supplemental answer, allowed by a judge who had not heard the case more than a month after the approval of the master's report will be stricken from the record: Grand v. Grand, 29 Dauph. 57.

JURY TRIAL. REFERENCE TO MASTER.

Section 35. Jury Trial. After service on the respondent in the manner aforesaid, if either of the parties shall desire any matter of fact, that is affirmed by one and denied by the other, to be tried by a jury, he or she may take a rule upon the opposite party, to be allowed by a judge of the court, to show cause why the issues of fact set forth in said rule shall not be tried by a jury, which said rule shall be served upon the opposite party or his or her counsel.

Upon the return of said rule, after hearing, the court may discharge it or make it absolute, or frame issues itself, and only the issues as ordered by the court shall be tried accordingly; but such rule shall not be made absolute when, in the opinion of the court, a trial by jury cannot be had without prejudice to public morals.

Drafted from Sec. 2, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 164, as amended March 19, 1923, P. L. 20. Trial by jury in divorce cases is discretionary with the court: Hornstein v. Hornstein, 39 Pa. C. C. 251, s. c. 21, D. R. 337; Renard v. Renard, 60 Pa. Super Ct. 386; unless a jury trial would be prejudicial to public morals in which event the court has no discretion and must refuse trial: Purman v. Purman, 7 D. & C. 755; Dwyer

v. Dwyer, 7 D. & C. 198. "Public morals" means evidence pertaining to sexual relations: Schuster v. Schuster, 7 D. & C. 183, and after the appointment of a master, the submission of his report, the overruling of exceptions to his report and a decree of divorce upon payment of costs, an application for a trial by jury is too late: Abraham Grand v. Katie Grand, 29 Dauph. 57. The provision on jury trial is constitutional: Espey c. Espey, 42 Pa. C. C. 107, s. c. 62, P. L. J. 201; Tschirsky v. Tschirsky, 7 Leh. 154, s. c. 14, Del. 373. A jury trial is properly refused where the court is of the opinion that it would be prejudicial to public morals: Espey v. Espey, supra; MacPherson v. MacPherson, 44 Pa. C. C. 297; Cunningham v. Cunningham, 6 Sch. L. R. 382; but see Stowe v. Stowe, 15 Del. 183. A trial will be refused for insufficient reasons: Brehony v. Brehony, 18 Sch. L. R. 195; Homrich v. Homrich, 12 Berks 184.

The request for a jury trial must be made by a party to the suit and not someone else: Wagenseller v. Wagenseller, 50 Pa. C. C. 170.

The language employed in asking for a jury trial is the customary language employed by pleaders from time immemorial: Renard v. Renard, 60 Pa. Super. Ct. 386; Delong v. Delong, 19 D. R. 771.

When a jury has determined the facts in a divorce case the court must still determine the cause as to law and justice shall appertain by either dismissing the petition or decreeing a divorce as provided by statute: Elsesser v. Elsesser, 80 Pa. Super. Ct. 117.

Section 36. Appointment of Master. Powers. When neither of the parties takes a rule for a jury trial, or when after hearing the rule is discharged, the court may proceed to hear the cause, or may, upon motion of either party, appoint a master to take testimony and return the same to the court.

Drafted from Sec. 2, Act of March 15, 1815, P. L. 150, as amended March 19, 1923, P. L. 20.

The master cannot be appointed before the return of the order for publication: McCune v. McCune, 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 248; Bell v. Bell, 1 Wash. 291.

In divorce suits the Commonwealth is always an unnamed third party to the proceeding, and on its behalf the courts or the master will take up the investigation of any fact properly averred, whose determination is material to the issue; and it is the duty of the master to examine the answer filed by respondent even though no proof is offered to support it and the respondent does not appear at the hearing; and if the answer refers to the testimony of libellant in a former suit which was withdrawn, which was contradictory, he is justified in recommending the libel be dismissed: Schroeder v. Schroeder, 7 D. & C. 751.

On a hearing before a master it is error to refuse to permit the respondent to testify even when the record has been formally closed, where the master was sitting to hear argument of counsel, and had not prepared his report: Newhard v. Newhard, 86 Pa. Super. Ct. 537.

Section 37. Orders to Take Testimony Outside Jurisdiction. The court may upon the application of either party, and upon such terms as it may order, authorize and direct the master to take testimony of witnesses in any other country, State, or territory, subject to the jurisdiction of the United States, or in any foreign country.

Drafted from Sec. 2, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as amended by Act of March 19, 1923, P. L. 20.

BILL OF PARTICULARS.

Section 40. Bill of Particulars. In any suit or action in divorce it shall be lawful for the respondent, at any time after the return of the subpoena, to enter a rule upon the libellant to furnish a bill of particulars of the cause of action as set forth in the libellant's petition filed; and if the same be not furnished by the libellant within thirty days after service of notice of the rule entered, unless the court shall upon cause shown extend the time, the court shall enter a judgment of non pros.

Drafted from the Act of May 25, 1878, P. L. 176.

A bill of particulars is a more particular specification of the matters set forth in the libel: Weeden v. Weeden, 34 Pa. Super. Ct. 358. It is questionable whether a respondent is entitled to a bill of particulars before answer filed: Bruch v. Bruch, 10 Leb. 17.

ALIMONY.

Section 45. Permanent Alimony where Respondent Insane. In case of the application of a husband for divorce from an insane wife, the court or the judge thereof to whom the application is made, is hereby vested with full and complete authority to provide alimony for the support of such insane wife during the term of her natural life, by requiring the libellant to file a bond, with surety or sureties, if necessary, in such sum as he or it may direct, conditioned as aforesaid, before granting the divorce.

If the wife be the petitioner, and have sufficient means, the court or the judge may provide for the support of the insane husband as provided in this section for an insane wife, if the insane husband has not sufficient estate in his own right for his support.

Drafted from Cl. O, Act of April 13, 1905, P. L. 211, amending Sec. 8, Act of April 13, 1843, P. L. 233.

Section 46. Alimony Pendente Lite. Counsel Fees and Expenses. In case of divorce from the bonds of matrimony the court may, upon petition, in proper cases, allow a wife reasonable alimony pendente lite and reasonable counsel fees and expenses.

A new section declaratory of the case law.

A wife's right to alimony pedente lite rests upon the personal obligation of the husband to maintain her: Ormsby v. Ormsby, 1 Phila. 578; Seads v. Seads, 11 D. R. 689. The right does not rest on statute, but is incident to the jurisdiction: Grove's Appeal, 68 Pa. 143; Dipple v. Dipple, 15 D. R. 547; it is established by long practice and rests upon equitable powers; Koehler v. Koehler, 73 Pa. Super. Ct. 41; Kauffman v. Kauffman, 73 Pa. Super. Ct. 603. Alimony pendente lite is not a matter of right but is addressed to the sound discretion of the court; the wife's condition and the husband's ability to pay must be shown: Purman v. Purman, 7 D. & C. 755; but the right to alimony is not estopped because the proceedings are instituted by the wife, nor by the fact that she has a separate estate; income and not her estate must be regarded. To deny her means to pay for process is to deny justice: Hartje v. Hartje, 39 Pa. Super. Ct. 490; Naylor v. Naylor, 59 Pa. Super. Ct. 547; Neagley v. Neagley, 590 Pa. Super. Ct. 505; Waldron v. Waldron, 55 Pa. 231; but where she is the libellant it is her duty to show that she is so situated as to be unable to proceed without alimony; Wherry v. Wherry, 69 P. L. J. 550. A husband cannot claim alimony and counsel fees from the wife: Kunkle v. Kunkle, 18 York 121.

The alimony allowed by the Act of May 8, 1854, P. L. 644, which provided for permanent alimony in cases where the charge was fraud or cruel and barbarous treatment was eliminated by the amendment of April 4, 1925, P. L. 124. There is therefore no statutory provision for permanent alimony except in cases for absolute divorce, where the respondent is a lunatic.

In addition to alimony, the husband may be required to pay reasonable counsel fees, costs and expenses: Graves v. Cole, 19 Pa. 171; Renman v. Renman, 3 Kulp, 341; Walter v. Walter, 3 Kulp, 39; Paule v. Paule, 17 Pa. C. C. 147; Beers v. Beers, 4 Lanc. 154; Davidson v. Davidson, 18 W. N. C. 63; Frey v. Frey, 10 Lanc. L. R. 215; McNeil v. McNeil, 65 P. L. J. 188; Lynn v. Lynn, 68 Pa. Super. Ct. 324.

Section 47. Alimony in Divorce from Bed and Board. In cases of divorce from bed and board, the court may allow the wife such alimony as her husband's circumstances will admit of, but the same shall not exceed the third part of the annual profit or income of his estate or of his occupation and labor, which allowance shall continue until a reconciliation shall take place, or until the husband shall by his petition or libel, offer to receive and cohabit with her again, and to use her as a good husband ought to do; and then, in such case, the court may either suspend the aforesaid decree, or in case of her refusal to return and cohabit, under the protection of the court, discharge and annul the same according to its discretion; and if he fail in performing his said offers and engagements, the former sentence or decree may be revived and enforced, and the arrears of the alimony ordered to be paid.

When a decree of divorce from bed and board, and the allowance of alimony has been made by any court, the prothonotary shall enter the said decree on the judgment-docket of said court, which said decree when so entered, is hereby declared to be and shall remain a lien on the real estate of such respondent, until the same is satisfied, for the full amount that may be due up to the period of such satisfaction. After such lien shall be so entered, the prothonotary shall upon affidavit by the libellant that any payment under said decree, as the same as has been made due and payable by the court, is due and unpaid, issue execution on the written order of the libellant, or her attorney, setting forth the amount so due and unpaid, which shall be directed to, and served by, the sheriff in like manner as executions upon judgment. And if the court should be of the opinion that the said lien is not sufficient for the full or permanent security for payments under said decree, it shall have power and authority, on satisfactory proof being made that the respondent is possessed of sufficient estate, to order a decree and require that security, such as shall be determined and approved by said court, shall be given for the due payment of the said alimony according to the terms of said decree; the said security to be either by a bond, with sufficient securities, or mortgage on real estate, taken in the name of the Commonwealth, to the use of the party entitled to said alimony, or by the deposit of money, to be invested as the court may deem proper, as may seem to the court sufficient to secure the payment of said alimony, as the same may fall due.

The courts may enforce their decrees by attachment, on the return of which they may make such order, either to imprison or discharge the defendant, as the facts of the case may justify.

Paragraph one drafted from Sec. 1, Act of 1817, P. L. 67; paragraph two drafted from Act of April 15, 1845, P. L. 455.

HEARING. REPORT. DECREE.

Section 50. Libellant a Competent Witness. In all proceedings for divorce, the libellant shall be fully competent to prove all the facts, though the respondent may not have been personally served with a libel, subpoena or rule to take depositions, and may not be residing within the Commonwealth, but have been served only by publication.

Drafted from Sec. 1, Act of June 8, 1911, P. L. 720, as amended by the Act of April 21, 1915, P. L. 154.

The Act of 1911 applied only to desertion cases, but it has been held that this provision of the existing law is not limited to desertion cases, and that the amendment of 1915 was sufficient to extend the Act of 1911 to all cases of divorce: Krupp v. Krupp, 26 D. R. 487.

Section 51. Records of Conviction of Adultery. When the respondent in any action of divorce shall have been convicted and sentenced for adultery, the records of the said conviction shall be received in evidence on any application for a divorce by the injured libellant.

Drafted from Sec. 4, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150.

Section 52. Defence to Charge of Adultery. In any action or suit for divorce for the cause of adultery, if the respondent shall allege and prove that the libellant has been guilty of the like crime; or has admitted the respondent into conjugal society or embraces, after he or she knew of the criminal fact; or that the said libellant (if the husband) allowed the wife's prostitution or received hire from its or exposed his wife to lewd company, whereby she became insnared to the crime aforesaid, it shall be a good defence and a perpetual bar against the same.

Drafted from Sec. 7, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150.

Section 53. Proof of Lunacy of Wife Libellant. Upon the hearing or trial of any case, where a petition or libel was presented by a relative or next friend on behalf of a wife who is a lunatic or non compos mentis, the question of lunacy with every other matter of fact that is affirmed by one party and denied by the other, shall be heard and investigated in the manner prescribed by this act.

Drafted from Sec. 8, Act of April 13, 1843, P. L. 233, as revived by the Act of April 18, 1905, P. L. 211; as to the effect of the revival of this section, see notes to Sec. 19.

Section 54. Proof of Lunacy of Respondent. Upon the hearing of any case before the court, a master or jury, where the petition or libel sets forth that the respondent is a lunatic, the question of lunacy shall be fully established by expert testimony, together with every other matter of fact that is affirmed by one party and denied by the other. No divorce shall be granted to the libellant in any such case unless it be proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the respondent is hopelessly insane; but if any respondent has been for ten or more years an inmate of any asylum for the insane, it shall be conclusive proof of hopeless insanity.

Drafted from Clauses B and C, Act of April 18, 1905, P. L. 211, amending Sec. 8, Act of April 13, 1843, P. L. 233.

Section 55. Report of Master. Where a master has been appointed, he shall make a report to the court of the proceedings had before him and his opinion of the case.

Drafted from Sec. 2, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, as amended by the Act of March 19, 1923, P. L. 20.

The report of the master should be paragraphed and the facts and legal conclusions should be distinctly set out: Nungesser v. Nungesser, 32 Pa. C. C. 383; it should be framed in the manner of reports of masters in chancery and contain specific findings of fact: Moore v. Moore, 11 D. R. 253. The master should make specific finding upon the ground alleged in the libel: Dean v. Dean, 14 Sch. L. R. 82; Murray v. Murray, 29 D. R. 225; and should pass upon the credibility and value of testimony; Pietz v. Pietz, 20 D. R. 311. In the findings of fact he should not set forth what the witness said, but what he finds from what they said: Palmer v. Palmer, 69 P. L. J. 827.

The report should show the length of the libellant's residence in the county; the place where the respondent was served with process, and in desertion cases where the desertion occurrd: Beach v. Beach, 68 P. L. J. 643; Maust v. Maust, 70 P. L. J. 282.

The report should be accompanied with the form of decree recommended: Himovsky v. Himovsky, 12 Northam. 36.

The master's report, while it is entitled to the fullest consideration because of his personal contact with the witnesses, does not come to the court of common pleas, or the appellate court, with any prepondering weight or authority which must be overcome: Burns v. Burns, 84 Pa. Super. Ct. 489, and the court must be satisfied by its own knowledge of the testimony that the averments of the libel have been proved by competent evidence before a divorce can be granted: Middleton v. Middleton, 187 Pa. 612; Williams v. Williams, 85 Pa. Super. Ct. 473; and on appeal it is incumbent on the court to review the testimony and find whether it sustains the complaint of the libellant; Giles v. Giles, 80 Pa. Super. Ct. 469. "The act only authorizes the appointment of a 'master' for a limited purpose and does not confer on him the same powers as a master in equity nor give his 'report of the proceedings and opinion of the case' the force and effect of the later's findings of fact"; Burns v. Burns, 84 Pa. Super. Ct. 489; not the conclusiveness of those of an auditor or master in chancery; Rommel v. Rommel, 87 Pa. Super. Ct. 511; and he acts only in an advisory capacity, the act authorizing his appointment not intending that judicial functions should in any material degree be relinquished by conducting the proceedings before a master, or that weighty judicial responsibility should be evaded by shifting it over to a member of the bar; it still remains the duty of the court to exercise its own independent judgment as to the law and the facts, to state its reasons for overruling or sustaining exceptions to the report of the master, and in addition to review in writing the case on its merits: Humphreys v. Humphreys, 85 Pa. Super. Ct. 488. The inquiry of the court is not whether there is evidence to support the finding of the master, but whether on the whole record, the court is satisfied that a decree should be granted or refused: Narceli v. Narceli, 87 Pa. Super. Ct. 162; but a master in divorce has the advantage of seeing and hearing the witnesses, and respect should therefore be given to his conclusion as to the credibility of witnesses and to his findings of fact: Stauffer v. Stauffer, 29 Dauph. 268.

Section 56. Decree of Court. It shall be lawful for the said courts after hearing any cause, whether before the court or a master, to determine the same as to law and justice shall appertain, by either dismissing the petition or libel, or sentencing and decreeing a divorce or separation from the nuptial ties or bonds of matrimony, or from bed and board or that the marriage is null and void. After a sentence nullifying or dissolving a marriage, all and every the duties, rights and claims accruing to either of the said parties at any time, theretofore, in pursuance of the said marriage, shall cease and determine, and the said parties shall severally be at liberty to marry again in the like manner as if they never had been married, except where otherwise provided by law.

Sec. 8, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150.

The last phrase "except where otherwise provided by law" refers to Sec. 9 of the Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, which prohibits a respondent guilty of adultery from marrying his or her paramour. This section is properly a part of the marriage law.

Section 57. Costs. The court may award costs to the party in whose behalf the sentence or decree shall pass, or that each party shall pay his or her own costs, as to it shall appear to be just and reasonable.

Sec. 12, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150.

APPEALS.

Section 60. Appeals. Either of the parties in any suit or action for divorce may appeal therefrom to the Superior Court in the manner provided by law for such appeals, and the said appeal shall be prosecuted in the usual manner, and the Superior Court shall transmit the record with their judgment thereon with all the proceedings as in other cases, to the court below to be carried into effect.

But where a respondent in any proceeding for divorce files with the prothonotary of the said court an affidavit that such appeal is not taken for the purpose of delay, but because the appellant believes he has suffered injustice by the decree from which he or she appeals, and that by reason of his or her poverty, he or she is unable to furnish the required bail, such respondent shall be entitled to take such appeal the same as it the required bail had been given.

Drafted from Sec. 13, Act of March 13, 1815, P. L. 150, and Sec. 1, Act of June 11, 1891, P. L. 295.

These acts provide appeals to the Supreme Court, but the jurisdiction was changed by Sec. 7 of the Act of May 5, 1899, P. L. 248 to the Superior Court.

Both of these acts require the party appealing to enter into a recognizance with surety in double the amount of costs. This has been eliminated as now included under the general law of May 19, 1897, P. L. 67, regulating appeals. The Act of 1897 repealed the Act of 1891 so far as it relates to recognizances and affidavits.

The language of the last paragraph has been changed slightly so as to make the contents of the affidavit conform to the requirement of the Act of 1897. See also Sec. 15 of said Act of May 19, 1897, P. L. 67, allowing appeals without security.

An appeal taken on the verdict of a jury without final sentence or decree of court is premature and will be quashed: Elsesser v. Elsesser, 80 Pa. Super. Ct. 118.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

Section 65. Short Title. This act shall be known and may be cited as "THE DIVORCE LAW."

This section is new and gives the short title of the Act for citation purposes.

Section 66. Rules of Court. The several courts of common-pleas are hereby authorized to make and adopt such rules and practice as may be necessary to carry this act into effect and to regulate proceedings before masters, and to fix their fees.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

TUESDAY, January 1, 1929

The hour of twelve o'clock having arrived, Hon. Eugene F. White, Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives, called the members-elect to order and announced, that

This being the day fixed by the Constitution for the meeting of the General Assembly, and a number of ladies and gentlemen elected members of the House of Representatives sufficient to constitute a quorum being present, the body will come to order.

PRAYER

The Chaplain, Rev. George P. Donehoo, offered the following prayer:

Lord, Thou hast been our dwelling place in all generations. Before the mountains were brought forth, before Thou hadst formed the world, even from everlasting to everlasting, Thou art God. On this first day of the new year, at this first session of the General Assembly of this Commonwealth, we pray that we may be governed and directed in all that we do at this session by Thine infinite wisdom. May the flowers on the desks of the members here today be an indication of God's goodness and of God's love to man. Bring us as representatives of the Commonwealth into loving, faithful service so that this great State which we all love may be more and more glorified through that which we do. Bless the new members and bless those who met with us and who have gone out from this place never to return again to these halls. Abide with us now and abundantly bless us for Thy name's sake. Amen.

The CHIEF CLERK. One hundred and ninety-eight members having answered to their names, a quorum is present. The House is now ready to proceed to business.

JUDGE TO ADMINISTER OATH OF OFFICE TO MEMBERS ELECT

Mr. REED, a member-elect, offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and adopted:

Resolved, That the Honorable Frank B. Wickersham a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County, learned in the Law, be requested to administer the oath required to be taken by the Members of the House of Representatives.

ADMINISTRATION OF OATH OF OFFICE TO MEMBERS-ELECT

The CHIEF CLERK. The members-elect will present themselves before the bar of the House where the oath of Office, as required by law, will be administered to them by the Honorable Frank B. Wickersham, a Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County.

The oath of office was then administered to all the members elect who were present.

ELECTION OF SPEAKER

Mr. MATHAY offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and adopted:

Resolved, That in accordance with the provisions of Article 2 Section 9, of the Constitution, the House now proceed to the election of a Speaker, and that the clerks act as tellers.

NOMINATIONS FOR SPEAKER

The CHIEF CLERK. The Chair recognizes the gentleman from McKean, Mr. Wilson.

Mr. WILSON. Mr. Chairman, ladies and gentlemen, we are gathered here this afternoon under a provision of the Constitution to elect the officers and officials of this House who shall guide us and assist us in conducting the affairs of this session. It becomes my duty, as well as my pleasure, to present to my colleagues of the House the choice of the Republican caucus for its Speaker during the session of 1929. The man that we present to the House is an experienced and veteran member who has served on the committees of the House and in its various activities and who by his efficiency and attention to his duties has proved his fitness for the position to which we are about to elect him. He was born on a farm in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, of poor parents. His father was a veteran of the Civil War. His father and his mother were people of the deepest piety, his father devoting the last years of his life to being a minister and bishop of the Dunkard church. He went through the ordinary experiences of a poor farm boy, did the chores of work, suffered the privations and inconveniences of that life, graduated from the common schools of his district, went to one of the normal schools of the State of Pennsylvania, became for nine years a teacher of the public schools of Pennsylvania. He then moved into the city of Lancaster where he engaged in the business of farming, of manufacturing, and of banking, and came to the House of Representatives in 1910 representing the city of Lancaster and the county of Lancaster. He has served upon the various committees of the House, he has served on the Appropriation Committee, the Committee on Manufacturers, the Committee on Roads, and in so doing has become acquainted with our institutions, our hospitals, our homes for the feeble minded and our colleges, and has become acquainted with their wants, their needs, and our ability to look after them, all of which has been impressed upon his mind. He has taken an active interest in the affairs of the men in our prisons, in prison reform, in those men of who we think so little. He brought into this House the bill which provided for the penitentiary at Bellefonte, that wonderful undertaking we are still working at. He has been on the Roads Committee, he knows the institutions of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Chairman and fellow members of the House, I feel it is particularly proper at this time when the people of Pennsylvania have decided by their votes in the election last fall that the State of Pennsylvania had to finance its hospitals, its roads, its charitable institutions, not by bond issues, but that we should pay as we go, that a man should be elected Speaker of this House, when the duty is placed upon us to take care of the children, these feeble-minded children, these charitable institutions, these colleges, we should elect a man who has the background of the man I am about to nominate, a man who knows the institutions, their wants and needs, and at the same time knows the business of Pennsylvania and the manufacturing interests upon which the prosperity of this State is founded, and who will be able to find the fine line in providing adequate remedy for these institutions, these wards of the State, and at the same time see that the manufacturing and business interests are not overtaxed or hurt too much. He has worked his way up to where he is now, not by accident or sudden acquisition of power but has slowly and laboriously climbed the ladder of success and achievement by hard work, attention and efficiency in the task set him until now he is about to receive from his Republican colleagues in this House their unanimous nomination for Speaker of this House during the session of 1929. Mr. Chairman, it is now my duty, agreeable to the instructions of the caucus of the Republican members, as well as my very great pleasure to place in nomination as Speaker of this House for the 1929 session our distinguished colleague and friend, the member from Lancaster County, the Honorable Aaron B. Hess.

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Chairman, and members of the House of 1929, may I say that in my humble opinion the sweetest thing in life is the personal contacts that we make in our associations in the House of Representatives. These associations and personal contacts are only arrived at in the hearty mingling and co-mingling with each other, for the purpose of exchanging views and ideas in the framing legislation for the constituents which we have the honor to represent, that it may reflect credit to those of us who do represent them. With full realization of the qualities of the man whose nomination I am about to second, a man who has been with us for many sessions, a man who has been active and progressive, staunch in his Republicanism, a man of courage and loyalty and sympathy, a man of great executive ability, self-poised and efficient, a man whose Republicanism has never been questioned, a man who will reflect great credit to the speakership of this House, on the eve of the new year with the beautiful stage setting that we have today and with the realization that we are marching to the tune of progress, I can do nothing finer this afternoon than to assume the great pleasure and honor of seconding the nomination of that distinguished gentleman from Lancaster, Aaron B. Hess.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I have listened to the wonderful remarks of the two gentlemen who have preceded me, and I can only say again at this time what I said last night regarding the candidate for Speaker of the House, Mr. Aaron B. Hess. There is a seriousness about this Speakership. It doesn't mean that Mr. Hess after his election shall simply deliver words from his mouth to the members, because every word that he speaks will sink deeply into the sixty-seven counties of this State in which there are in the neighborhood of ten millions of people, and these ten millions of people have not only the right to expect but they have the right to demand that the man who shall predominate over this House, so far as the Speakership is concerned, shall be a man who is qualified and above all who shall possess integrity and honor; these are the fundamentals; these are the things that he must have, that must be in his general make up. So it is a pleasure to me at this time to say to you that since 1915 I have served here in this House with Mr. Aaron B. Hess, and I have always found him to be a fine outstanding gentleman and I take great pleasure right now in seconding the nomination of the Honorable Aaron B. Hess of Lancaster for the Speakership of this House.

Mr. BIDELSPACHER. Mr. Chairman and members of the House of 1929, as I said last night, Aaron of old in a great crisis upheld the hands of his mighty leader. Today, tomorrow and in the coming days of the session, we will reverse that proposition and uphold the hands of Aaron. I take pleasure in seconding the nomination of that distinguished son of Lancaster County as speaker of the House of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the session of 1929, the Honorable Aaron B. Hess.

Mr. WASHINGTON. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, I believe it is the proper procedure to present at this time the name of one of our minority representatives and I want to say in presenting this gentleman's name that he is a man known to all of you, he has had some considerable experience here as a representative in this House. He has won many friends among both the Democrats and the Republicans. He is a credit to his county and to his constituency, and it gives me considerable pleasure at this time to place before you the name of William J. Munley of Lackawanna County, as the Democratic candidate for Speaker of the House.

Mr. KAHLE. Mr. Chairman and members of the House, the man that has been presented here by my colleagues as a candidate for Speaker of the House is here as a man who has been loyal to his party, the minority party, but he has also been loyal to the State. He has worked for the interests of the State and in its behalf, and I wish this morning to second his nomination of Mr. William J. Munley.

The CHIEF CLERK. Are there any other nominations?

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Chairman, I move the nominations be closed.

OATH OF OFFICE ADMINISTERED

The oath of office was then administered to Hon. Aaron B. Hess Speaker-elect of the House of Representatives, by the Hon. Frank B. Wickersham, Judge of the Court of Common Pleas of Dauphin County.

ADDRESS OF THE SPEAKER

The SPEAKER. Ladies and gentlemen of the House of Representatives: I am very grateful to you, indeed and desire to extend to each one of you my sincere thanks for the distinguished honor you have conferred upon me and upon the District I represent by electing me with such unanimity to preside over the deliberations of this House, during the ensuing Session.

As I stand upon the thresh-hold of my duty, rejoicing in the fact, that you have thus signally honored me, I am not unmindful, that while the office of Speaker of this House is indeed a great honor, it is also a very great responsibility; so while I wish to assure you on the one hand, that I shall do my utmost to be fair and impartial and to be of assistance to every member of the House to the greatest extent possible; on the other hand I crave your indulgence and your co-operation, so as to enable us all to discharge our responsibility to the best of our ability and to employ in our deliberations the highest order of wisdom.

Pennsylvania is to-day an Empire of great wealth and ten millions of people. Among our population we find as great a diversity of racial traits, tasks, motives, ideals, capacities, needs, longings, and ambitions as can be found among a similar number anywhere in the world. Our industry, which gives employment and support to this cosmopolitan population is as diversified as are our people. To legislate wisely for them; to properly safeguard the interests of all of them is, indeed, a great responsibility and challenges the best that is in each and every one of us.

No one will deny, that equality of opportunity is the right of every citizen of this great Commonwealth; whether rich or poor, high or low, native or foreign born and every man and every woman is entitled to take that position in the life and activity of our State, which his or her ability and his or her character entitle them to.

It is only in an environment where these priceless blessings are assured, that we can reasonably expect the courage and the faith of a people to stimulate them to their greatest achievement and their maximum endeavor and it is the sum total of these achievements, that constitutes the progress of our Commonwealth, which in the past has been so pronounced as to place Pennsylvania at the very front of the procession of states. Our legislation must be such as will not permit any privileged class or group to hold opportunity as their own prerogative, but such as will insure an open door to unfettered and equal chance to the boys and girls of countless generations yet unborn.

I submit, Ladies and Gentlemen of the House, that we may well submit any and all contemplated legislation to this test. Is it a kind that will not weaken or destroy the domain of "equal opportunity"? If it does not then it has qualified for further consideration.

What shall we adopt as the slogan of the Session of 1929? We are all desirous of having a session in which economy, good housekeeping and efficiency are emphasized; but may I suggest, that we adopt as the slogan of this session the plain, humble word "service." Shall we not here and now highly resolve to lay aside our personal ambition and the idea of what we can get out of this session and concentrate in a tremendous mass movement on what we can put into the session, that will enable us to render a really worthwhile service to the people of our great Commonwealth. The men and the women, whose names have lived long in memory and have gleamed forth from the halls of fame are the men and women, whose lives were devoted to serving their fellowmen. Progress means change and changes are occurring all about us. Medicine's chief concern used to be to cure disease. Today medicine's chief concern is to prevent disease.

Law's greatest concern used to be to settle disputes. Today law's greatest concern is to prevent disputes.

A nation's greatest concern used to be to have wealth and power enough to crush her enemies, but now a nation's greatest concern should be to so fashion her international relation as to have no enemies.

Shall we not endeavor to render a service, that will not only lift the load and lighten the burden of the man or the woman, who guides the activities of the giant corporation, but a service that will lighten the burden and lift the load from the shoulders of the man or the woman who sitting by the door of his humble cottage surrounded by his loved ones looks out across the night, and wonders what of the morrow? A service that will increase the wealth of Pennsylvania. A service that will protect the health of the people of Pennsylvania. A service that will insure the safety of the people of Pennsylvania. A service that will forever defend equal opportunity in Pennsylvania. A service that will promote the general welfare of our people physically, intellectually, morally and spiritually. A service that will make it easier to do right and more difficult to do wrong and may our vision of service have the beautiful background of "Peace on Earth, Good Will Among Men." I beseech the guidance of Almighty God, as we carry on.

MESSAGE OF GOVERNOR JOHN S. FISHER TO THE GENERAL ASSEMBLY

GOVERNOR JOHN S. FISHER. Members of the General Assembly:

If left to our own inclinations and devices, I presume we would all prefer to spend this New Year's Day with our friends and families in the observance of those pleasant customs and festivities which have been associated with this holiday from time immemorial. However, duty calls and you are assembled in conformity with the mandate of the Constitution to open the legislative session of 1929. The fundamental law imposes upon me the duty of addressing to you this message for your information, advice, and guidance. In so broad a field as I shall be obliged to cover it will be impossible to enter into detail. I can deal only with generalities and present to you for your thoughtful action subjects in their larger aspects. Much of the specific information which you will require concerning the condition of the State and the activities of the various Departments of Government will be laid before you in due season when the budget is presented.

I am happy to be able to advise you that the finances of the Commonwealth are in excellent shape. This biennium will close with a balance in the State Treasury of at least $25,000,000. This is an unusual and gratifying situation and reflects the prosperous condition of business, the diligence of the fiscal officers in collecting and conserving the revenues, the rigid care exercised in keeping expenditures within appropriation allotments, and the beneficial influence of the budget over the control and regulation of the business operations of the State. In no small measure the favorable treasury balance may be attributed to the collection of considerable amounts that were delinquent and in litigation. Some large appropriation items, mounting into the millions, made at the last session have not been used and will revert to the Treasury. Current revenues have flowed in steadily with normal increase in volume. We may, therefore, look to the coming two years with confidence in our ability to pay as we go. Long needed and extensive improvements are made possible with the money already saved and that which may be anticipated with reasonable certainty from current income. This splendid condition will not be an invitation to extravagance. The lean years from which we have so recently emerged are reminders that our efforts must be directed towards constructive developments that are yet kept well within the limits of our ability to pay with the means at hand.

It naturally follows that the State has been prompt in meeting all her just obligations. The appropriations made from the General Fund in the session of 1927 amounted to $145,130,154. These have sufficed to enable the various public activities to function with vigor and efficiency. At times some of the Departments have been placed under great strain by unexpected emergencies and pressing demands, but the bounds set by the appropriation items have been rigorously observed, so that deficits from departmental operations are negligible. Interest on the public debt has been paid, all sinking funds have been squared, the several retirement funds for teachers and employees are up to legal requirements and the road bonds available for redemption because of State ownership or maturity have been paid off. The credit of Pennsylvania never stood higher than at this moment.

I cannot allow this occasion to pass without paying tribute to the officials and employees in the public service whose efforts have been so instrumental in bringing about our present happy situation. Cabinet heads and elective officers alike have done more than merely discharge the duties and functions of their respective offices. There has ever been manifest a fine spirit of interrelated helpfulness. Wherever opportunity has afforded the chance to pull together for the public interest, there has been excellent teamwork and a complete absence of that friction which sometimes mars official relationships. There have been few changes in either major or minor positions. Continuity of service and effort, coupled with departmental coordination, is the source from which the Administration has drawn its strength to serve the people. Especially would I lay emphasis upon the fidelity and diligence of the great army of State employees, without whom leadership could accomplish little. Zeal and integrity have marked the performance of the men and women who are doing the work of the State Government so competently.

In furtherance of efficient business management, the Legislature of 1927 created the Department of Revenue. The Governor was authorized to appoint, as of November 1, 1928, a Secretary of Revenue to assist in organizing the Department and in recommending to this session the legislation necessary to enable the Department to function properly when organized. On mature reflection, I did not feel called upon to fill this newly created office, because it appeared that the necessary enabling legislation could and should be prepared by the Attorney General, thus avoiding the expense incident to earlier organization. I reaffirm my conviction that the creation of the Department was a wise move, and recommend that the legislation essential to its successful operation be enacted. Experience in budget making has convinced me that the responsibility for the collection of the public revenues should rest with the Chief Executive if his suggestions for expenditure are to have value and weight with the legislative body. Budgeting is simply the balancing of outgo against income. It furnishes the instrumentality for the regulation of the flow of the public money through the lawfully designated channels of government, and the wisdom of subjecting it to the same authority throughout its course is at once apparent. The fiscal departments have heretofore been charged both with the duty of making tax collections and auditing disbursements. They have cooperated splendidly with this Administration in performing both of these functions. However, the extent and importance of the State's activities and the amount of its expenditures have increased to such a point that the auditing departments should be free to devote their attention exclusively to auditing work and to the custody of the millions of dollars of State funds and securities.

We are entering upon an era of constructive activity. Prior to this biennium there had been a long continued period of suspended development of State-owned properties. This regrettable situation was the result of unavoidable conditions. Many of the public properties had fallen into a condition of dilapidation and inadequacy. For a long time no provision was made for the normal expansion needed to meet constantly increasing requirements for service. The last Legislature sought to afford a measure of relief by making generous provision for repairs, extensions and new buildings. To this end there was given to the Pennsylvania State College $1,000,000 to supplement a similar amount donated from private sources, to State Armories $1,000,000, to the erection of the North Office Building of the Capitol Group $1,000,000, to the Memorial Bridge at the State Capitol $1,500,000, to State Normal Schools and Teachers' Colleges $2,000,000, to the Crippled Children's Hospital at Elizabethtown $350,000, and to the numerious welfare institutions $7,642,300, or, in all, a grand total of $14,492,-300. This great sum has been expended or practically all placed under contract, although because of lack of preliminary plans, the absence of properly manned bureaus to direct building activities and want of a centralized authority to formulate and carry into execution a well considered building program, much delay was experienced in starting construction.

The North Office Building, the Memorial Bridge and work at the two penitentiaries have proceeded expeditiously. A number of the armories are finished and others in course of completion will consume the appropriation. The funds awarded to the Normal Schools and State Teachers' Colleges have been placed under contract. The welfare institutions have presented difficulties not incident to other cases. They are widely scattered and are largely under the control of local boards, all of which were newly appointed after the close of the previous session. The delays have been largely overcome but the anticipated benefits have not yet been made available. When the buildings under construction are finished, the Welfare institutions will be able to house an additional 792 patients and 133 officers, nurses and employees in the mental hospitals; 560 inmates and 60 officers and attendants in the schools for mental defectives; 100 patients and 208 officers and attendants in the medical and surgical State-owned hospitals; 120 patients in the Selinsgrove Colony for Epileptics; and 2187 inmates and 401 officers and employees in the penal and correctional institutions. These facts and figures supply the basis for your action in making provision for the continuance of the very worthy work now under way.

I turn aside to remark that experience and observation convince me that there is need for delegating to one agency supervision over all State building operations. It goes without saying that the various departments should have a free hand in the preparation and approval of all building plans for their respective uses in order that the buildings may be adapted to the needs for which they are intended, but after the disposal of all preliminaries there will be great gain and economy in placing construction work in the hands of an agency especially equipped to supervise and direct it. I invite your consideration to this suggestion in view of the larger problems just ahead.

The plans for expanding the Welfare institutions should take into account the modernization of existing plants and equipment, the accommodations needed for the relief of overcrowded conditions and waiting lists, and the ultimate care of additional patients and inmates representing the annual increment. The new penitentiary at Gratersford can and should be completed and all the prisoners from the old removed to the new penitentiary before the close of the coming biennium. Provision for another unit should be made at Rockview and consideration should be given to the needs at Huntingdon, Morganza, and Muncy. The mental hospitals and schools for mental defectives need enlargement. The Selinsgrove State Colony for Epileptics should be advanced to a condition capable of caring for a large number of unfortunates who are improperly housed at other places, and the Cumberland Valley State Institution for Mental Defectives, the location for which is owned by the State, should be commenced.

The State-owned medical and surgical hospitals present a problem of their own. They are ten in number and were designed for the benefit of the miners in the anthracite and bituminous coal fields. They had their origin at a time when hospital service was confined largely to the cities. In the day of their establishment they served their purpose well, but in the development and spread of the hospital system throughout the State they have come to be practically community institutions. In a number of instances the public has generously contributed to their support, equipment, repair, and enlargement. It is entirely natural that there should have grown up around them a local interest and pride and a manifest desire to control their policies and management. This consequence has led to some friction between the Department of Welfare and those who are locally in charge. I would suggest as a solution that authority be granted to turn them over to properly incorporated and responsible local bodies, upon proper request, to be continued and operated under State aid. It is apparent that the State is not warranted in expanding the plants of these hospitals to provide community service other than that for which they were designed, but as long as they are within State control there is the necessary obligation for maintenance and upkeep.

The health record in the State for the past two years is the best since the establishment of the Department of Health. The death rate in 1906 was 16 and by the close of 1927 was reduced to 11.4. This record is the highest praise that can be given to the efficiency of the Department. It is due to the more intelligent care and consideration of child life, the control of communicable diseases, the better knowledge of health laws, the introduction of better standards of living, the tremendous improvement in hospital service of all kinds, the unrivaled progress made in medical science and practice, and the many protective measures introduced to remove the sources of diseases. In the two years just closed every form of disease has shown a falling off with the single exceptions of cancer and diabetes. These two ailments are under intensive study by the health authorities and by the medical profession at large. I incline to the view that provision should be made for exhaustive laboratory research work to alleviate their ravages.

Tuberculosis has fallen off but continues to be the "White Plague." There is a constant waiting list of from 600 to 1200 applicants, varying with the seasons of the year, at the tuberculosis sanatoria at Mont Alto, Cresson, and Hamburg. There are many other agencies assisting to combat this disease. The State cannot carry the entire load, but it should provide facilities for those sufferers who are unable to secure treatment for themselves. The crippled children have not been overlooked and the State Hospital at Elizabethtown, especially designed for them, is nearing completion and will shortly be ready for occupancy. The institutional work of the Department of Health should be generously supported.

Attention has been given to health conditions in rural sections. The Department has introduced an innovation in the form of traveling laboratories and health cars. These have been found to be especially serviceable for testing water supplies along the main highways, at camps, and in homes and communities suffering from or threatened with infections. Many clinics have been held in remote communities, which would not otherwise have been served, dealing with a great variety of ailments. We should see to it that health service is given to those who are beyond the reach of the facilities found in the more populous districts.

The Sanitary Water Board is an agency about which I would like to tell you something. Stream pollution is one of the greatest evils that threatens the healthfulness, usefulness and beauty of our many noble rivers and smaller streams. The evil has grown to alarming proportions. It has been a gradual and insidious encroachment which had its origin in the tremendously rapid industrial development and the introduction of modern methods of sewage by cities and larger centers of population. The water-courses seemed to be the easy, inexpensive, and natural receptacles for the disposal of impurities gathered from these sources. Most of the waters in the public streams are now so overloaded with poisonous matter that they have become carriers of disease and destroyers of all forms of aquatic life. Heretofore much energy has been expended in an endeavor to remedy conditions through legal actions, which have caused only annoyance without any appreciable relief. The Sanitary Water Board has adopted a different approach by inaugurating the policy of making scientific surveys to discover the causes and extent of pollutions, the nature of impure discharges, the effects upon health and life, and the best methods of treatment. These activities have covered all the major watersheds and have supplied a fund of information for an intelligent and practical course of action. The owners of industrial plants and the officers of municipalities have been approached with a view of securing their cooperation. The response has been most encouraging. In only a comparatively few instances have unconcern and defiance been manifested, and these will be dealt with in a manner which is expected to be effective. The steps being taken by municipalities to erect sewage disposal plants and by industrialists to care for the wastes from their activities give great promise of a restoration of the normal purity of the water flow of the State.

At this point it is opportune to comment on the activities of the Water and Power Resources Board in the Department of Forests and Waters, dealing as it does with another phase of the stream problem. It has been attentive and active in looking to flood control and to the difficulties issuing from the rapid development of populations, industrial plants, and the obstructions from bridges, buildings, dams, and other interferences with channel capacity. Consideration is being given to the possibilities of protection through the construction of reservoirs and dykes for flood control and the deepening and widening of channels, and other like preventive measures. So that these activities may be carried on intelligently and scientifically, surveys and hydraulic studies, including advanced methods in gauging on a number of the main streams, have been made to determine what may be most practical. Following these surveys this Board has uniformly sought the cooperation of the communities affected, and as a result has much actual accomplishment to its credit.

Until within a year the purchase of lands for reforestation had been in suspension over a considerable period. For more than a decade little more was done than to superintend the forestry lands already in possession and to encourage reforestation by private enterprise. At the last session a renewal of activities was made possible by the appropriation of $500,000 from the General Fund, to be expended for new purchases by the Department of Forests and Waters. This action was encouraged by the proposal of the representatives of the sportsmen of the State to make a small addition of 75 cents to each hunter's license fee, to be used exclusively in acquiring and managing game refuges. These small beginnings have accomplished much. The Department has acquired approximately 160,000 acres at an average cost of about $2.81 per acre and still has enough of its appropriation in reserve to cover the incidental costs of title examining, engineering, and conveyancing. The lands acquired have been carefully selected with regard to their adaptability to rapid tree growth and their influence in conserving and protecting water supply. Not a cent that we know of was spent for commissions.

The Board of Game Commissioners used its resources equally wisely and effectively. The revenues from the increase in licenses amounted to $378,585.75 in the year beginning June 1, 1927 and ending May 31, 1928. By estimate the present fiscal year will yield about the same. It is apparent that the Commission has at its disposal in this biennium more than three-quarters of a million dollars, most of which is being expended upon the purchase of game refuge lands. To date more than 84,000 acres have been bought and the acreage under negotiation for purchase will make the total over 100,000. Whether purchased for reforestation or for game refuges, the same public purpose is served because wild life will propagate in the forest possessions and trees will grow on the game preserves.

In addition, $450,000 was appropriated for the purchase of the Cook Forest, on condition of additional contributions from private sources in the amount of $200,000. This transaction is, or very shortly will be completed. The tract is designed more particularly for recreational purposes, but is included in the State's forestry lands.

From experience it has been learned that there are physical and business considerations to be reckoned with in taking up these public lands. If the program is urged too rapidly prices will naturally be affected. On the other hand, much time must be consumed in negotiations, title examination, engineering work, and other like matters which make it impossible to proceed beyond a certain speed limit. The transactions to which I have referred practically all occurred in 1928. Judging by what has been done, I feel warranted in saying that we can continue purchases on as great, or perhaps a considerably greater scale in the ensuing biennium without seriously clogging the machinery of the Department or affecting prices. A great public interest is to be served by continuing reforestation as rapidly as circumstances and prudence will permit.

The highways form our greatest single public enterprise. The popular mind is thoroughly saturated with interest in this subject. Modern means have made it possible for everyone, even in the most modest circumstances, to travel often and far. Hard surfaced roads are just as essential to the modern highway conveyance as steel rails are to the express train. The people need them and are insistently demanding them. It is the duty of the Legislature to provide the means and of the Executive to apply them to the best advantage.

The method of financing the Highway system is unique and stands in a situation by itself, separate and apart from the general fiscal operations of the State. We recall that in the early stages of the good roads movement it was necessary to make the start from the general treasury. As the benefits to the automotive vehicle became more apparent and the financial burden heavier, it became evident that it was both just and convenient to shift the cost to the users of the roads. This is just another way of financing a great public improvement by imposing the expense upon those who enjoy practically all the benefit. The burden is not heavy to the individual and it has been demonstrated clearly that the immediate advantages in car operation far outweigh the contributions in license fees and gasoline taxes. Along the way, the credit of the State was used in the floatation of two bond issues aggregating $100,000,000. The last $10,000,000 of this amount was applied to the building program of the past two years. The recent defeat of another proposed issue eliminates further use of the public credit in the development of the Highway system. We are now thrown back upon current revenues which may easily be made ample enough. It will profit us to make a brief survey of the probable demands and the means necessary to satisfy the requirements.

The extent of the system, the progress made in its construction, the replacement of the earlier deficient and badly worn construction, and the possibility of further enlargements and additions should be brought clearly under view. The original Sproul system included 8,835 miles, to which there have been subsequent additions increasing the total to 12,750 miles. This is exclusive of 580 miles of improved State-aid roads not on the Sproul system. Of the total mileage under State control 4,500 have unimproved beds of earth, gravel and shale; 3,557 have macadam bottoms; and 4,703 are of durable types of reinforced concrete, brick with concrete base, and sheet asphalt with concrete base. With the size and number of vehicles ever on the increase, there is a constantly growing load thrown upon the highways.

The improved 4,500 miles place a direct obligation upon the State ,which requires a construction program equal to that in vogue for the past few years. If 500 miles per year are built, it is apparent that the task can be finished in nine years. At the same time replacement should be carried along on the 1,300 miles needing reconstruction. This should be done within five years. The rate of progress I have indicated would seem to be entirely feasible.

Undoubtedly you will be faced in this session with vigorous demands to extend the present system. It would seem inadvisable to enlarge it until the construction program catches up with what we have. However, there are some suggestions affecting the unification of the system as it now exists to which I shall direct your thought. You will recall the passage and veto of the bill at the session of 1927 incorporating certain county bridges into the State highways. I vetoed that bill most reluctantly, because I believe that all bridges forming parts of a continuous driveway on State highways should be taken over by the Commonwealth. This is not only fair, but is fast becoming a necessity. There can be no justification for imposing the most expensive part of the Highway system in the form of bridges upon the communities which in many instances are the least able or not at all able to pay. I have in mind numerous bridges which must be renewed in the near future to prevent breaks in the highways and unless the work is assumed by the Commonwealth it cannot be done. The proposal I am now making is merely an extension of work we have already been doing in taking over the joint bridges on the Delaware River. If we feel obligated for bridges which inure jointly to the benefit of the citizens of our own State and New Jersey or New York, certainly the logic is much stronger for us to take over the State Highway bridges which lie within our own jurisdiction and in the main serve our own people.

One other step remains to complete the consolidation of the State highways. This is not as large or serious a matter, because it involves only about 350 miles. The cities of the first, second and third class are warranted in asking the same treatment with respect to the highways traversing their limits as is accorded to the trackage outside the city boundaries.

I recommend the adoption by the State of the bridges and city streets needed for the continuity of the Highway system, together with ample provision for the expenses thereby imposed upon the Department of Highways.

There are approximately 90,000 miles of township roads still to be maintained by local communities. In the recent past the Legislature has been giving some aid by appropriating biennially $5,000,000 as State-aid in permanent constructions and $3,000,000 as township rewards. There should be a reasonable increase in these appropriations. Local roads are being subjected more and more to the use of mechanically operated vehicles and the public at large should contribute to the necessary increase in the cost of their care and maintenance. The Department of Highways is equipped and can render invaluable aid to supervisors on township reward roads. Perhaps no other activity and form of expenditure will afford so large a measure of accommodation over so wide an area as will result from the more liberal use of funds for township rewards.

In planning the finances of the future the Legislature will keep in mind the temporary character of one cent of the gasoline tax which automatically expires May 31, 1929. It will also have in view the large drains which must be made upon Highway income for the payment of bond interest and sinking funds, the return to counties of one-half cent per gallon of the gasoline tax, the necessary overhead charges of departmental operation and the numerous other smaller demands for aid at public-owned institutions, elimination of crossings, forestry roads, interstate bridges and the like. As bearing upon this question the ultimate payment of the bonds outstanding must be considered. Of the first $50,000,000 issue, only $12,000,000 were made redeemable in serial amounts of $2,000,000, beginning July, 1924, and at fixed intervals, ending July, 1949. Of the second issue, $20,000,000 are redeemable in serial payments of $2,000,000 each, beginning April, 1930 and running over a spread of years ending April, 1952. It is thus apparent that of the bonds outstanding $68,000,000 are uncallable, for payment of which at maturity sinking funds must accumulate to the amount of their face value. These sinking funds will bear the usual rate of interest while on deposit and as far as practical be invested in eligible securities, so that the loss to the State will be reduced to a minimum. The detriment to the road development consists in drawing off this huge amount from the highway revenues and freezing it in the inactive sinking fund for so long a time.

I commend to your early and earnest consideration the disposal of problems involving the future of the public highways, to the end that there may be as little derangement as possible in the continuing activities of the Department of Highways.

Following closely upon the extraordinary development and remarkable changes wrought by motorized vehicles is the phenomenal progress made in the last year or two by aviation in this and other countries. Pennsylvania is not laggard in this new mode of transportation. We have had occasions just recently to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of the first flight by a heavier-than-air machine. One of the Wright Brothers still survives to receive the plaudits of the world and to witness the triumph of his genius. It is a far stretch of imagination from that first experimental flight of twelve seconds' duration to the accomplishments of a Lindbergh, but the twelve seconds in the air were more significant in some respects than the spanning of the Atlantic, for it opened the way to a new era for mankind,—the navigation of the air. Even since the creation of the State Aeronautics Commission two short years ago the industry has developed in Pennsylvania with remarkable rapidity, not only in the number of planes, pilots, airports and landing fields, but in the manufacturing field of aircraft as well.

With the extension of governmental air-mail, the growth of transcontinental lines and the increasing use of aircraft for pleasure by individuals, we should be in a position of helpfulness to make flying safe and convenient within our borders. Much preliminary work has been done in formulating rules and regulations, in providing inspection for planes and examinations for pilots and mechanics, in establishing friendly relations with the Aeronautics Branch of the Department of Commerce at Washington, and in making a State-wide survey of existing airports and convenient places for the establishment of others as occasion requires. In considering prospective lanes of travel and landing accommodations, the Aeronautics Commission has had the assistance of the Public Service Commission and the Departments of Highways and Forests and Waters. Means should be provided for keeping Pennsylvania abreast of the times.

The condition of agriculture has aroused the solicitude and engaged the thoughtful attention of public authorities in both Nation and State. In Pennsylvania the Department of Agriculture has exerted itself in many ways to alleviate unfortunate conditions and lend support to the industry. Every agency of communication has been commandeered to spread information that might be helpful in increasing productivity and in marketing to the best advantage the output of the farms. Experimental stations have been established and enlarged, and laboratories introduced for the purpose of studying all forms of plant and animal disease and the origin, habits and the best methods of destroying all sorts of insect pests. The Japanese Beetle and the Corn Borer have made alarming inroads, but much progress has been made in placing them under control. The studies of soil adaptability, fertilization, preparation, cultivation, harvesting and marketing have all been sponsored and encouraged throughout agricultural Pennsylvania in a most helpful way. The dairy business has received marked consideration by both the Departments of Agriculture and of Health, to the end that the dairy herds may yield the maximum of production freed from the menace of communicable disease. With an evident eagerness for enlightenment and growing interest in their problems, the farmers themselves are giving agriculture a new importance. There has been a decided increase in both production and value of crops. There is observable a growing tendency for the farmers to get together to work out their own problems. In any sphere of life self-helpfulness is the surest means of desired attainment. On this bit of homely wisdom the farmers need no instruction. No class surpasses them in industry, self-reliance and the general understanding of their business. In the get-together movement there have grown a number of useful organizations, but I would especially mention the Grange. Its influence is so widespread and its methods so practical and effective that the beneficial results of its activities entitle it to our grateful acknowledgment. The agricultural societies have made a useful contribution. Recently they have been exceedingly prosperous and their better and more varied exhibits have naturally attracted large attendances. The displays made at them are highly stimulating to efforts for higher standards.

The most remarkable feature of our farm life has been the development of the annual Farm Products Show at the State Capitol. Many unsuccessful efforts have heretofore been made to start a State fair. Just as the project seemed to be hopeless, the farmers worked out the problem in their own way through the establishment of this Farm Show. It has grown to such proportions as to attract national attention. The success has been attained with little public support and in the absence of anything like housing accommodations. Embodying as it does the very finest example of the endeavor of the farmers to adjust themselves to their own requirements for economical and social improvement, ample housing facilities should be supplied as encouragement and reward of their enterprise. A convenient and ample location is available on the property of the Harrisburg State Hospital on which a suitable structure may be erected.

The Pennsylvania State College has worked in close harmony with the Department of Agriculture. It is needless to pay tribute to State College for its remarkable achievement in the field of scientific agriculture. This institution has not received the support to which the best interests of our agricultural industry entitle it. At the last session the Legislature appropriated a million dollars to supplement another million which had been donated by private individuals toward the inauguration of a building program. These two millions of dollars have been expended wisely and further support should be given to the College to enable it to house its faculty and great student body in commodious, convenient and comfortable quarters.

Our public schools have been moving forward at a rate of progress that is inspiring. The education of the boys and girls has commanded the consideration of every Legislature ever assembled. From the organization of the State Government to the establishment of the semblance of a free school system, made workable in 1836, was a long, disheartening struggle. It was rescued from its weakness and insecurity only by the eloquence of Thaddeus Stevens. It is thus apparent that the common school system has some years yet to go before attaining its centenary, but it is reassuring to feel that we are close upon the realization of the ideals of its earlier champions who hoped for the opportunity of a good education for every Pennsylvania by and girl. Modern life will not tolerate ignorance. Our whole social, economic and political welfare rests upon an enlightened citizenship. We are now educating nearly two million children in the grades and high schools. The State and the local communities are expending about $130,000,000. annually in providing instruction and school equipment. New buildings are being erected at a cost of nearly $40,000,000 annually. Those in charge of our schools have been progressive in providing and ampliyfying the physical plants to conform with the demands and conditions befitting the time in which we live. In any treatment of the school problem there is only one course to follow, and that leads onward. There are some adjustments needed to equalize the opportunities of boys and girls everywhere, and there are difficulties in adjusting the needed support of the system to unequally distributed wealth, but the solution of these problems is in sight and I have no doubt will invite the earnest thought and action of your membership.

One of the passing weaknesses of the public schools has been the want of properly trained teachers. The inducements were not sufficient to invite men and women to devote their lives to the highly honorable profession of teaching. This condition is finding a remedy in better wages during their active careers and in reasonable provision for retirement when overtaken by sickness and age. The preparation of the teachers is being cared for by enlargement of the normal schools and teachers' colleges and by the introduction of higher standards of preparation. Heretofore the teachers' preparatory institutions were unable to provide more than a fractional part of the requirements for new teachers. We may confidently look forward at no distant date for an annual turnout equal to the demands of the Commonwealth. There are now more than 58,000 teachers in the public schools and everyone must realize that they are the most important factor in the training of the young. A well prepared, devoted and earnest body of teachers is the very essence of educational work.

In passing, I desire to call attention to the activities of the State Library and Museum. The character of the service rendered by it has notably increased during the current biennium. The administration of this important branch of the Department of Public Instruction has been thoroughly reorganized and put on an efficient basis, and its clientele broadened and served as never before. Its weekly use of the radio has brought it into direct communication with a multitude of homes.

The Department of Public Instruction has been miserably housed for a number of years. In the original plan of the Capitol Group an Educational Building was designed. Lack of means has prevented its erection, but I am glad to advise that in my opinion funds will be available for the building of this notable addition to the Capitol Group within the coming biennium.

Industrial conditions throughout the State are generally satisfactory. Capital has found remunerative investment and labor has been employed steadily at fair wages. Productivity in the industrial plants throughout the State yielded a turnover in 1927 of $7,311,685,000. The present year will show equally well. The Department of Labor and Industry has been in close relation with all activities and has found an excellent spirit of mutual helpfulness and regard between employers and employees. Employers appreciate the necessity of giving willing labor the opportunity to live comfortably. The wage scale is the mainspring of prosperity. With this in mind the principal employers in Pennsylvania are lending their united efforts to the movement inaugurated by the Department of Labor and Industry to find a job for every man and woman who wants it. This branch of the Government, as well as the Department of Mines, has laid special stress upon the protection and safety of the workers. Much has been accomplished through greater efficiency in methods, mechanical devices, and health conditions on the part of employers and by more intelligent care by the employees themselves.

The coal industry forms an exception to the general rule of prosperity. This applies both to the anthracite and the bituminous fields. There have been numerous contributing causes, such as over-production, competition from other fuels, labor disturbances, and unjust and discriminatory freight rates. These unsettling factors have been somewhat abated, but not sufficiently to restore the industry to its former state of economic importance and prosperity.

In the anthracite field there has been a encouraging movement in which the operators, the miners, and the general public have participated, looking toward the re-establishment of healthy conditions. This union of endeavor should and must lead to a reasonable recession in price to the consumer in order to induce the return of lost customers. In this connection much mention has been made of the tonnage tax of one and one-half per cent, averaging about eight cents per ton, levied by the State on commercial sizes. There will doubtless be strong representations made to you for the repeal of this tax. Whether the State can lose the revenue from this source will depend largely upon the appropriations which are finally made. If you, in your wisdom, find that any tax reduction is possible after providing for the reasonable and necessary needs of the public activities, I respectfully recommend to you the consideration of the abolition of this tax.

Our banks, building and loan associations, and insurance companies represent great accumulations of wealth. They are in sound condition. There has been but one State Bank failure in two years, and that a very small one. These lines of business have been growing by leaps and bounds and the importance of safeguarding them multiplies with the number of our citizens who become interested as depositors and investors. The Departments have been unusually diligent and watchful, and the public can rest in a feeling of security that their savings in the banks and their investments in insurance are safe.

The agencies for the enforcement of the laws have been active and faithful. In general, good order has prevailed and the peace of our citizens has not been disturbed by any unusual outbreaks or occurrences. Certainly there has been individual crime, no little of which is traceable to the violation of the liquor laws. A thorough system of co-operation between the State Alcohol Permit Board, the Federal Prohibition Agencies, and the Pennsylvania State Police has resulted in more actual enforcement today than at any time since the prohibition laws have gone into force. All are familiar witth the recent exposures in connection with racketeering and bootlegging. These are merely a new alliance of old crimes and are closely related to illicit distilleries, breweries, and other forms of underworld lawlessness. All these forms of law breaking cannot, perhaps, be stamped out, but they can be held under control and steadily reduced by rigid enforcement. If corruption among public officers is stamped out, enforcement will become a practical possibility.

We have recently gone through the experience of an exciting national election. Never was there such a turnout of the voters in the exercise of their right of franchise. This lively interest is a hopeful women and should be encouraged and protected. Wherever needed, safeguards should be thrown around the ballot box to secure it from fraud; every precaution against the corruption of the voter should be taken; and every measure to facilitate and simplify the act of casting the ballot should be utilized. The recent constitutional amendment making possible the use of the voting machine will require enabling legislation. At the last session there was created a Commission to review our election laws and to report recommendations for improvement. All these considerations combine to direct your attention to such revisions and additions of ballot laws as may be suggested by it. I have no doubt that you are sensible of your duty in this respect and I cannot refrain from turning aside to remark that the greatest need to insure honest elections is the continuance of the aroused public conscience and interest which now seems to be stirring in the minds of the people. If they want integrity at the polls, the necessary law and enforcement machinery can readily be found to carry into effect their will.

I apologize for imposing so long upon your most considerate patience. There is much to be said and much to be done. During the session our mutual duties will bring us into frequent contact. I want to assure you of my desire to expedite your labors in every way possible. The officials and records of every Department will be at your service, and all proper inquiries and requests directed to the Executive Branch will be responded to with promptness and heartiness. I observe an intention on your part to proceed to the public business, which has called you together, with promptness and expedition. An early adjournment will contribute to your own convenience, has my earnest indorsement and will receive the applause of the public. I wish you a Happy New Year and a pleasant and successful stay at the Capitol while you are detained in the discharge of your official duties.

Session 1929 128th of the General Assembly

Vol. 11 HARRISBURG, PA., MONDAY, JANUARY 14, 1929. No. 2

SENATE

MONDAY, January 14, 1929.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Arthur H. James) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. W. W. Hall, offered the following prayer:

God, our Father, we thank Thee for the preservation of our lives, that we are permitted to meet here again at this session. We thank Thee for all the favors of the past. We thank Thee for the wise and conservative administration of our Governor, and we thank Thee for his advisers; and we are here now to deliberate on the laws and means and ways for perpetuating the safety and happiness of the people.

May Thy blessing rest upon these men whom we have learned to love. Guide them by Thy wisdom. They must enact laws. Questions are to be solved, problems are to be met. Money must be appropriated to the various institutions—educational institutions and benevolent enterprises of the State. May they act wisely and well. They cannot do this themselves, they must have Thy guidance and Thy spirit. May Thy blessing rest upon them. We are glad we have been here. We have enjoyed their presence and we shall remember them as long as time shall last.

May the blessing of God rest upon this coming session, and may it be a great success. may prosperity and safety and goodwill and tranquility and harmony come to the State which we love. Bless the Governor. Bless the man who may fill this position. May he have the spirit of God to guide him. Help us all to love Thee, for one of these days we shall be no more, and the place that knows us now shall know us no more forever.

Hear us, we ask; and we will give Thee all the honor and praise, now and forever. Amen.

Resolved, That Tuesday, January 15, be fixed as the first day for introduction of bills in the Senate for the session of 1929.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, knowing that this resolution was to be presented tonight I was ready to oppose it, but I had explained to me that the newspaper men desired to have bills put over until tomorrow on account of a lot of work. I was in hope that we would present bills tonight, have committees report bills tomorrow and pass first reading and a short session on Wednesday morning, which would give us a calendar next Monday night on third reading. However, such request has been granted and I am willing to abide by it. I think we are wasting a lot of time.

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution?

It was agreed to.

RESOLUTION RELATIVE TO APPOINTMENT OF COMMITTEE ON REVISION OF RULES.

May some of the spirit of peace and good will of the Christmas season abide with us now and always. In the midst of all of the struggles and disagreements and strife of life, help us never to forget to be gracious to each other; no matter how we may differ in our religious beliefs or how we may differ in all of the things which have to do with our political and social life, help us always to be gracious and kindly to each other. Bless the Governor of this Commonwealth and all who are in positions of authority. Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the light of another day and for the opportunities for service which it brings. May we all have a realization of the joy of work and service. We thank Thee this morning for the joy and for the pleasure of association with each other; for all that this means unto us in life's sorrows and in life's cares. May we appreciate each other and show our appreciation by our willingness not only to serve each other, but to rejoice with each other and to sorrow with each other. May Thy benediction be this day upon everything that is done in this House; upon the Speaker; upon all who are here; upon the Governor and upon all the powers

SELECTION OF SUMMER WHITE HOUSE.

Mr. WITHERSPOON offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and adopted:

In the House of Representatives, January 15th, 1929.

Whereas, His Excellency, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, in a recent utterance urged the advisability of the establishment of a Summer White House to be used by the President and his family during the summer months, and

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, extend to the Federal Government an invitation to consider the Blue Ridge Mountain section of Pennsylvania in any action taken to select a site for a summer White House, and be it further

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. The Chair wishes to announce at this time that in making up the list of committees he has endeavored to place every member of this House upon active and important committees so as to permit every member of the House to take an active part in the deliberations of this body and thereby secure the concensus of the best judgment of the entire membership of the House in the final results of our deliberations. I wish further to say to the chairmen of the committees that they were not selected at random by any means. They were selected for the reason that it was believed that they were not only capable but that they would give to the bills entrusted to their care most careful and studious consideration; that they would permit and see to it that their committees do function one hundred per cent., and that in the committee the wheat would be separated from the chaff. To legislation that is meritorious, give full and careful consideration in the committee, and then report it to the floor of the House, but bills that have no merit don't report them out to clutter up the calendar and take up the time of the House; keep them in the committee. We are very sure all the committees will function one hundred per cent. and the work of the session will be improved thereby.

The Chair desires to further say that any member of the House who is especially interested in aeronautics, please confer with the Chair. We are desirous of placing upon the Committee on Aeronautics the members of this House who are especially interested in the advance of that subject. In the near future that will be a very important committee. Pennsylvania is taking the initiative in appointing a committee on this subject. The Chair will be pleased to receive suggestions from members of the House who are interested in flying and the things that go with it.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. LUCAS. Mr. Speaker, I move this House do now adjourn until Monday evening, January 21st, 1929, at 9.00 o'clock.

Mr. HAWS. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to, and at 10.57 o'clock A. M., the House adjourned until Monday, January 21, 1929, at 9.00 o'clock P. M.

SENATE

MONDAY, January 21, 1929.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Arthur H. James) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Our gracious and adorable Heavenly Father, we approach Thee at the Throne of Mercy and thank Thee for all the favors Thou hast bestowed upon us, and that Thou hast sustained us by Thy mighty power. We thank Thee for all the blessings Thou hast bestowed upon us, and we value highly the privileges that we enjoy in our American citizenship.

We pray Thy blessing to rest upon our great country, upon its law-making bodies and those who execute the law.

We thank Thee for this great Commonwealth of ours. We ask Thee that Thy choicest blessing may rest upon it, as it has in the past. We thank Thee for the high ideals that were in the minds and hearts of those who founded it, and who invited those who did not enjoy the freedom that they desired across the seas to come hither and enjoy the liberties furnished by this great Commonwealth.

And we thank Thee that the great, historic character responsible for this was not an idle dreamer nor a mere idealist when he announced to the world that he was a lover of peace. We thank Thee that the nations of the earth are finding this to be a most economic, ethical and practical thing. We thank Thee that the great nations of the earth, so many of them, have entered into a solemn compact never to resort to arms in order to settle their disputes. We thank Thee for the unanimity with which our National Legislature agreed to this compact; and we have asked of Thee that it may be a solemn compact and never to be broken. We entreat Thee that the prophetic insight and foresight of the great English man of letters may indeed come true, when he looked with the eye of vision into the future and saw the aerial navies battling in the central blue, and just beyond it noticed that "the war drums beat no longer, and the battle flags are furled," and there is coming in "the Parliament of Man and the Federation of the World."

Deepen the consciousness within us of our universal brotherhood, through a realization of the common Fatherhood we have in Thee. May we realize Thou hast made of one blood all the nations of the earth, and may we greet each other as brothers.

We pray Thy blessing upon the deliberations of this evening. May this body enjoy Thy divine guidance, so that whatever legislation is enacted may be enacted with the objective of the highest good to those represented here

We ask for all of these mercies and for the pardon of all our transgressions. In Thy eternal and ever adorable name. Amen.

RESOLUTION.

SYMPATHY EXTENDED ON DEATH OF BENJAMIN O. LOCKE.

Mr. MARCUS. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, before proceeding to introduce my resolution, I desire at this time to add a word of tribute to one who practically lived amongst us in these sessions for many, many years. You may have noticed him when members were called upon in times of interrogation and times of making remarks on the floor of the House, he was generally there to take the dictation, always polite and cheerful; a gentleman at all times. Despite the fact of his serious illness insisted, despite the fact of the warning of his doctors and his family, he was here last Monday night and during the week he passed away. I know you join the members of the Allegheny County delegation, where he formerly lived, in expressing with us our great sympathy for the family, and Mr. Speaker, at this time I desire to offer the following resolution.

Mr. MARCUS offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and unanimously adopted:

In the House of Representatives,
January 21st, 1929.

Whereas, On Saturday last, the nineteenth day of January, Benjamin O. Locke, of Allegheny County, since the Session of the Legislature of one thousand nine hundred and eleven, an official reporter of this House, died in his room at the Penn-Harris Hotel overlooking the scene of the labor of so many years, and

Whereas, During that long span of years as official reporter and chief official reporter, he so distinguished himself by his efficiency as to make his passing a real loss to the Commonwealth and to this House, and

Whereas, It was his sense of loyalty to his work and to the Members of this House that probably hastened his death on account of his attendance at the Session against the advise of his physician, and

Whereas, His response to his physician's warning that the trip to Harrisburg might prove fatal, that "I want to pass away looking at the dome of the Capitol" was further evidence of his deep love for his work and the associations attendant thereon, therefore be it

Resolved, That the Members of this House deeply regret the passing of one of its officers whose work was so highly efficient and whose loyalty to that work and whose friendly manner won for him the respect and esteem of the Members and employes with whom he was associated, and be it further

Resolved, That the House extend its sincere sympathy to the wife and family who survive, that these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the House, and a copy thereof be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House to the widow of the said Benjamin O. Locke.

RESOLUTION.

COMMITTEE TO ARRANGE FOR ATTENDANCE AT INAUGURATION OF HONORABLE HERBERT HOOVER.

Mr. TURNER offered the following resolution, which was twice read, and laid over under the rules.

In the House of Representatives,
January 21st, 1929.

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall appoint three members of the House and the President pro tempore of the Senate shall appoint two members of the Senate, who, together shall constitute a committee to arrange for the participation by the Commonwealth in the inauguration of the Honorable Herbert Hoover as President of the United States, and to consult with the National Committee or agency having said inauguration in charge. The committee hereby constituted shall make a report to the General Assembly as soon as possible, giving in such detail as may be required, appropriate plans, together with the amount of appropriation required to carry out such plans.

RESOLUTION.

RELATIVE TO APPOINTMENT OF ASSISTANT SERGEANT-AT-ARMS.

Mr. MUSMANNO. Mr. Speaker I hold here a resolution which has to do with John Honus Wagner, who was sworn in this evening as Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives, and before proceeding I want to take the pleasure of presenting him to the House of Representatives here this evening. John Honus Wagner.

Mr. Speaker and members of the House of Representatives. Honus Wagner has been a citizen of our Commonwealth since his birth. He was born and has resided continuously in Carnegie, located in the Legislative District which I, with my three colleagues, have the honor to represent.

Honus Wagner some years ago was a topic of daily interest; now he is a legend and has passed from the active stage of his professional life. It seems, in so far as the general public is concerned, that he has passed from the stage of life itself and so tonight it seems that he comes from a dim and distant past. I will be frank to confess that when I saw him this evening I had just a slight faltering of the heart beat in looking upon this old and grizzled veteran of the days that were. Mr. Wagner represents Americanism in one of its interesting phases. There is something about baseball which is reflective of the free and breezy spirit of American institutions. When people high and low gather together in the great outdoors to cheer for the home team they forget all personal rancor, all business rivalry and all political enmity. It fosters local patriotism and yet at the same time it brings distant cities and states into closer and more understanding relationships. Those who criticize and lament that the country is going to the dogs might reflect upon the thought that a country which can interest its inhabitants in pure, open air competitive sports to the point where that interest drowns all safe.

John Honus Wagner has done more than any single individual to make baseball the pastime of a nation. He has done more than any other person to make baseball clean and popular. Others, it is true, have reached the heights of stardom; others have climbed upon towering pedestals to pose and receive the plaudits of the multitudes, but all too frequently the long arm of scandal has reached upon and pulled them from their lofty altitude. Others also rode for a moment the skies of popularity only to tumble to earth and into the dust of shame and disrepute because character did not keep pace with professional skill. But in the entire generation that Mr. Wagner was in the eyes of the athletic world, not once was the finger of suspicion pointed at him; never was there anything whispered about him and never did false and shame-faced rumor perch upon his doorstep.

He was employed in a day when no fabulous salaries were paid as now; charitable, he shared with those less fortunate than himself so that when age overtook him he could not retire upon a competence and live in ease and comfort. He had to start life anew and the fates were not kind. He met reverse after reverse. The man who had achieved triumphant victories almost daily, the man who was the idol of the children and youth of the land, the man who had captured the hearts of millions, went down into defeat in the great battle of life, and he was left a sad and lonesome figure, forgotten by the world which once so signally admired and revered him.

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, this little act of homage is long overdue. I present this resolution and ask for its unanimous adoption.

Mr. Musmanno offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted.

commercial, political and personal animosity is a country whose free and democratic institutions will be perennially

In the House of Representatives,
January 21, 1929.

Whereas, John Honus Wagner, of Carnegie, Pennsylvania, has been appointed Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives, and

Whereas, It is common knowledge that he was for many years, because of his extraordinary skill as a baseball player greatly admired throughout the Commonwealth and Nation by enthusiasts of clean outdoor sport, and

Whereas, His life has always been honorable and his character above reproach, and

Whereas, As Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms, this will be his first public office,

Be it Resolved by the Members of the House of Representatives that they express to John Honus Wagner their confidence in his integrity and ability, and, individually and collectively, extend to him the wish of a long life of happiness.

Be it Resolved further that this resolution be spread upon the records and a properly engrossed copy thereof be handed to John Honus Wagner.

COMMUNICATION FROM THE GOVERNOR.

The Private Secretary to the Governor being introduced, presented the Budget of the Commonwealth for the biennium nineteen hundred and twenty-nine to nineteen hundred and thirty-one.

The Clerk proceeded to read the Budget, when upon motion of Mr. Haines, seconded by Mr. Ederer, the further reading was dispensed with.

The SPEAKER. The communication will be noted in the Journal and printed in the Appendix to the Legislative Journal.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker and members of the House, during the many years that I have been a member of this House, I have had the extreme pleasure of serving under seven Speakers, including yourself. Every one of the Speakers has proven to the public and to the members of the House that they were positively sincere, and did good work in the service of this great Commonwealth.

There was a Speaker who served in the last session, and the session before, in the person of the Honorable Thomas Bluett, of Philadelphia. He resigned his office because of the fact that he had been appointed to a judgeship in the Municipal Court of the city of Philadelphia. The Honorable Thomas Bluett, a judge of Philadelphia County now is here, and I would ask the Speaker for consent to have him approach the rostrum and address the members of the House.

The SPEAKER. The Chair asked and obtained unanimous consent of the House to have the Honorable Thomas Bluett, now Judge Bluett, to address the members of the House.

ADDRESS OF THE HONORABLE THOMAS BLUETT.

The SPEAKER. It affords me very great pleasure indeed, to introduce to the members of the House of 1929, the Honorable Thomas Bluett, Speaker of the House during the Sessions of 1925, 1926 and 1927, the Honorable Thomas Bluett.

HONORABLE THOMAS BLUETT. I suppose I ought to start out by using the old familiar gavel and saying, "The House will be in order."

Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, I am sure it is a great pleasure for me to be back here again where I spent so many happy days. It is a great pleasure to come back and mingle with the fellows, as I have always said, and you have heard me say so many times, the best fellows in the State of Pennsylvania. That, of course, applies to the ladies, too, who are serving with us now.

I was talking to a Congressman not so very long ago and he said that even he, and he was one of the fellows who served in this House, had more fun here in one session of the House than he has had in a number of sessions in Congress. So I feel when we come here that we really do come for a good time, because we have mingling with good fellows from all parts of the state, the best fellows that can be found throughout this old state of Pennsylvania.

Some of you have heard me say before and it is more aptly expressed in the statement of one of our fellows in about the 1921 session, when he said that these fellows that you meet in the House are the kind of fellows that at first you don't know, but afterwards you warm up to them, and they are the kind you like to go with on a two or three weeks' fishing trip. Of course, that is one of the very best tests of fellowships, when you want to go out and be with those fellows for two or three weeks at a time.

I want to congratulate you on your organization this time, and upon the selection of your Speaker. He has had a great deal of experience in the House, and I am sure you are going to have a lot of good times with him. I am sure he is going to be fair and treat you all fair in your deliberations. I am sure there will not be any quarrels among you, and what may seem to be quarrels, will not be quarrels when the session is over.

Speaking of quarrels, it reminds me of the story that I know some of you have heard, told by that greatest of story tellers in the country, Irvin Cobb. He told this story over in New York, so I am not claiming any credit for it. He said that he was out in the country one Sunday afternoon admiring the calm and the beauty and the stillness of nature, when he was attracted by a lot of noise coming from a place, he did not know where, but he followed the noise to its source and found that it was coming from a little cottage, and that there was a couple on the porch quarreling as loud and as hard as they could. This fellow stepped up to them and said, "I am awfully sorry that you two people are quarreling on such a fine bright Sabbath afternoon. You ought to be part of the country just now and be peaceful and calm." And the fellow said to him, "My friend, may I ask you a question?" and he said, "Yes, go ahead." "Well," he said, "in order that there be a quarrel there must be some dispute. Isn't that right?" The fellow said, "Well, I guess that is true; I guess there ought to be a dispute." "Well," he said, "my wife has been arguing that she shall get all of my week's wages, and I know damn well she ain't. So therefore there is no quarrel between us."

So it will be with you. Many of these things that seems to disturb the harmony and peace and good order of your body will not be a quarrel at all because after a while you will get together and you will understand each other better; you will settle your differences and there will not be any quarrels. You will go away from here at the end of the session feeling that it was a great joy and satisfaction to be a member of the House of Representatives of this great Commonwealth.

I want to say to you again that it gives me great pleasure to be back here among you and to thank you for this opportunity to again say, "Hello" to you from this rostrum. Thank you.

The SPEAKER. I am sure that I am expressing the sentiment of every member of the House when I say it has been a real pleasure to have the Honorable Thomas Bluett with us, and we extend to him the invitation to come again as often as he finds it possible to do so.

ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. LUCAS. Mr. Speaker, I move that this House do now adjourn until tomorrow morning at 11.00 o'clock.

Mr. BIDELSPACHER. Mr. Speaker, I second the motion.

The motion was agreed to, and (at 9.55 o'clock P. M.) the House adjourned until tomorrow morning at 11.00 o'clock.

RESOLUTIONS ON THE DEATH OF COLONEL JAMES ELVERSON, JR.

Mr. SALUS offered the following resolution, which was twice read, as follows:

In the Senate, January 22, 1929.

Whereas, The death yesterday of Colonel James Elverson, Jr., at a time when life and the joy of living, was still strong within him and ere the shadows that mark its closing hours had lengthened, marks the passing of a great newspaper publisher, a patron of the arts, a clubman and one whose activity in things political was always directed in the cause of civic righteousness, and

Whereas, It was largely due to the influence of his newspaper that moulded in Pennsylvania that strong sentiment for Herbert Hoover, which resulted in his nomination for the Presidency of the United States, and

Whereas, In the city of his birth and the place of his labor, he leaves behind many accomplished civic improvements which will forever be monuments to his vision, his energy and his fidelity to the principles of civic responsibility that marked his career, therefore be it

Resolved, That in the untimely and unexpected death of Colonel Elverson the Commonwealth has been deprived of a continuance of that influence he so effectively wielded for the public good; that the City of Philadelphia bettered and enriched by his keen interest in her advancement, with the Delaware River Bridge, the Parkway and the Art Museum, standing out as memorials to that interest, will miss for all time the power and the force and energy that the influence he exerted put behind every movement for civic improvment, and be it further

Resolved, That the Senate of Pennsylvania grieves with his widow in this, her time of sorrow and extends to her a sympathy which is very real and sincere, conscious however of the pride that is ours and which must be hers at this time in the knowledge that he who has gone was one who truly loved his fellowmen and had at life's close their fullest love and respect and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the Journal of the Senate and a copy thereof be forwarded to his widow by the Secretary of the Senate.

Mr. SALUS. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires concurrent resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee be dispensed with, and that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I second the motion .

On the question,

Will the Senate agree to the resolution.

It was agreed to.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING.

Mr. LESLIE offered the following resolution, which was twice read, considered and agreed to:

In the Senate, January 22, 1929.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That when the General Assembly adjourns today it reconvenes on Monday evening, January twenty-eight at nine o'clock.

HOUSE MESSAGES.

TIME OF NEXT MEETING.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, informed the Senate that the House has concurred in resolution from the Senate, as follows:

In the Senate, January 22, 1929.

Resolved (if the House of Representatives concur) That when the General Assembly adjourns today it reconvene on Monday evening, January twenty-eight at nine o'clock.

The Clerk of the House of Representatives being introduced, presented extract from the Journal of the House, which was twice read as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 22, 1929.

Whereas, The people of the United States voted overwhelmingly on November sixth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, for the earliest possible upward revision of the existing tariff law, to the end that adequate protection be given to every American product, of farm and factory alike, that is subject to foreign competition in the markets of this country; and

Whereas, Much of our agriculture and many of the industries of Pennsylvania are suffering great and continuing losses, and in some instances face actual destruction, as a consequence of importations which the rates of the existing tariff law are insufficient to restrict; and

Whereas, This displacement of American products and American employment not only has lessened or entirely suspended the earning powers of thousands of our citizens, with far-reaching effects, but has reached the point of seriously endangering the revenues of the Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved, (If the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby respectfully petitions President-elect Herbert C. Hoover to convene a special session of the Congress at the earliest practicable date subsequent to March fourth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, for the purpose of making such an upward revision of the existing tariff law as will insure adequate protection to every American product, and to American labor, the opportunity for full-time employment at wages consistent with the American standard of living; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall forward a copy of this resolution to the Honorable Herbert C. Hoover, president-elect of the United States.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I move that Rule 39, which requires concurrent resolutions to be referred to an appropriate committee be suspended and that the Senate do now proceed to the consideration of the resolution just read.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, in order to bring it before the Senate I second the motion. I do not see why we should dictate the policies of the Government, but in order to bring it before the Senate, I second the motion.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The PRESIDENT. The Senator from Lehigh, Mr. Shantz, will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I suppose we all have noted that the committee assignments have been variously received throughout the Commonwealth. There have been both commendations and condemnations. They have been portraited and caricatured, and some of the artists have felt that they have put in print and portrayed their thoughts in such fashion, such emphatic fashion, that it ought to be brought to the attention of the Senate.

One of the members of this body, who was fortunate enough to be designated chairman of a committee, has various hobbies. Of course, we all regret that not all the able members of this body could be assigned to the best chairmanships; but, as I said, some of those that were fortunate enough to get some of the chairmanships have great hobbies. They spend their summers at Saratoga; they travel to Kentucky to enjoy the Derby races; they attend all the suburban and other races, horse races, throughout the country; and some of the newspaper cartoonists have evidently conceived the idea that perhaps the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations might try to transport and transplant into this body some of the ideas that he upholds at the race track.

I have been requested by the newpaper friends of this Chairman,—by the newspaper friends of Pittsburgh of the Chairman of the Committee on Appropriations—to present him with a portrait relating to his chairmanship, published in the Pittsburgh Gazette.

I want to say that this is only the first edition. This portrays the one side. The second edition will come a litttle later. But I want to serve notice on him that if he takes us for a race track, and wants to carry out, as I see it, the ideas contained in this portrait, I think there will be some rebellion,—and perhaps some removals.

On behalf of the newspaper friends from Allegheny, of Mr. Leslie, I have the honor and distinction of presenting to him this picture.

Mr. LESLIE. Mr. President, fortunately I happen to read newspapers and observe daily comments, and the wisdom and knowledge of cartoonists. I have some idea as to this cartoon and this presentation to me; but, while it may carry through it and by it some particular element of my life, I fail to see,—if this is the same that I have had the pleasure of looking at,—where the race track enters into the controversy. If he had pictured the wild west shows, I could have recognized that there would be an element of my participation with the Ringlings or others that have come out of the Wild and Woolly to take the gate from the eastern patrons,—that that caricature might carry through a demonstration; but, being appreciative of the artist, and knowing him very well, and knowing his ability as an artist,—Mr. Hungerford, one of the famous cartoonists, not only in Pittsburgh, not only in Pennsylvania, but in the United States,—he has brought me pretty close to some of the ramifications of my youth but not of my present age.

So, I accept it with the thought conveyed by my newspaper friends, and I appreciate it because there are some things in life that are worth while having,—that is, to have a little pleasure and a good joke, without too strong a cast of comedy but sufficient to have a smile nevertheless. Therefore, this to me is a memento of the wild life of my youth, not of a somber gentleman of sixty-five

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. There are now two hundred and thirty-nine bills referred to the various committees for their consideration. It is the thought of the Chair that after we have completed the work of the morning the House take a recess until two thirty this afternoon. This will enable the various chairmen of the committees to call a meeting and organize their committees and give consideration to such bills as they see fit. An opportunity will be given at that time to report out bills if there are any to report. If the committees will get down to a consideration of these bills promptly we may in a measure at least be able to avoid the jam which frequently occurs near the end of the session.

Mr. STERLING. Mr. Speaker, as I understand it, there is at present a committee at work in an effort to work out and ascertain where the various House committees will hold their meetings. I am told by Mr. Blumberg, the Chairman of that committee, that presently there are just four committee rooms in which forty odd committees of this House can meet. I would like the Speaker to let the chairmen of the various committees know where we can meet to organize.

The SPEAKER. It is the thought of the Chair that while there does not seem to be enough room to accommodate forty committees at one time, that in all probability there will not be forty committee meetings called at one time. The committees might meet in the rooms assigned on the blackboard and in portions of the House and if any committee wishes to use one of the Speaker's rooms, the Speaker will be glad to donate that room for that purpose until other rooms can be provided. It does not appear that the matter of taking adequate care of forty committees will be a hard problem. The growth of the various departments has encroached on the places of former meetings until there does not seem to be quite adequate accommodations; however, we have hopes that the committee will be able to work out something that will take care of the committees later on.

In the House of Representatives, January 21, 1929.

QUESTION OF PERSONAL PRIVILEGE.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker, I rise to a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state his question of personal privilege.

Mr. HEFFERNAN. Mr. Speaker and Members of the House, yesterday morning the city of Philadelphia and the state of Pennsylvania was shocked by the news of the death of Colonel James Elverson, Junior, owner and publisher of one of the greatest newspapers in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, the Philadelphia "Inquirer."

Colonel Elverson's death was caused by a heart affection. He was a native of Philadelphia, born on the twenty-eighth day of February, 1869. One of his greatest ambitions in life was to give to the city of Philadelphia a most magnificent building. In his ambition to create this architectural thing of beauty and design he little dreamed that in one of the floors above the call to the great beyond would come, for it was in this very building that he wished for and desired so much throughout his life that he died, leaving behind him a bereaved widow.

At this time I would like to say that Colonel Elverson was a man of great and powerful ideas. He represented a clean newspaper, and we Philadelphians are proud of our newspapers.

Colonel Elverson's chief claim to heart interest was that great heart interest that he took in the fourteen hundred employees that made up the coterie of the Inquirer employment bureau. The employees of the Inquirer held him in high respect and esteem, just as he has been held in high esteem and respect among the great political leaders of this state and this nation, for he was a national figure and one that we were proud of.

Mr. Speaker, there are many things I could say of Colonel Elverson, but of this christian gentleman there is nothing left to say only this: that he has fought his battle and he had been called by the God who made him and he is now happy there with him.

And so, if it please you Mr. Speaker, I would like at this time to present the following resolution and ask that the members please adopt it at once.

RESOLUTION EXTENDING SYMPATHY ON THE DEATH OF COLONEL JAMES ELVERSON, JR.

Mr. HEFFERNAN offered the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted.

In the House of Representatives, January 22, 1929.

Whereas, The Commonwealth has been bereft of one of its outstanding citizens and in the death of Colonel James Elverson, Jr., has lost the service of one whose powerful influence as a newspaper publisher was always directed in the ways that made for the advancement of the Commonwealth and the betterment of her citizens, and

Whereas, It is proper and fitting that this House should pause in its work to consider the passing one one who occupied so important a position in the affairs of the Commonwealth and whose opinions and views influenced and affected and moulded the opinions and actions of so vast a number of persons, therefore be it

Resolved, That in the passing of Colonel Elverson the Commonwealth has truly sustained a loss which will be felt by all those concerned with the affairs and best interests of the State for his adherence at all times to those high principles of civic righteousness that consistently characterized the editorial policy of his newspaper constituted much to the advancement of Pennsylvania in every way that distinguishes this Commonwealth, and be it further

Resolved, That although the State has suffered, we feel that the city of his birth and the scene of his labor has been denied the continuance of a help that brought about much in the cause of municipal reform for which he fought constantly and effectively, and be it further

Resolved, That we extend to his widow and family the fullest measure of our sympathy, feeling, however, that their knowledge of the honor and respect and love of his fellow men is a rich heritage to them which should in a great measure assuage their grief and make easier their sense of loss, and be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be spread upon the Journal and a copy thereof be forwarded by the Chief Clerk to his widow.

REPORT OF COMMISSION TO STUDY LAWS RELATING TO CRIME AND CRIMINALS.

The SPEAKER laid before the House the report of Commission appointed to study the laws, procedure, etc., relating to crime and criminals.

The SPEAKER. The report will be noted in the Journal and printed in the Appendix.

(For Report see Appendix to Legislative Journal).

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 15th, 1929.

Whereas, His Excellency, Calvin Coolidge, President of the United States, in a recent utterance urged the advisability of the establishment of a Summer White House to be used by the President and his family during the summer months, and

Whereas, The President further suggested that such summer residence should not be erected at too great a distance from Washington, and

Whereas, The Blue Ridge Mountain section of this Commonwealth by reason of its elevation, climatic condition, the beauty and grandeur of its scenery and its accessibility to the City of Washington, would furnish an ideal, healthful and advantageous site for the location of such summer residence, therefore be it

Resolved, (if the Senate concur) That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, extend to the Federal Government an invitation to consider the Blue Ridge Mountain section of Pennsylvania in any action taken to select a site for a summer White House, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Secretary of the Commonwealth to the Chief Clerk of the Senate and the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE SPEAKER.

The SPEAKER. It has been suggested, and the Chair finds it a very good suggestion, that the various Committee Chairmen meet immediately after adjournment in the House Caucus Room and there determine the order of business and definite times of meetings so that there may be as little conflict as possible. I would suggest to the various Chairmen who have called meetings of their Committees after the session to postpone their meetings a little while and give an opportunity for a meeting of all of the Chairmen present to work out the problem as suggested.

RESOLUTION.

Mr. E. P. BROWN asked and obtained unanimous consent to offer the following resolution which was twice read, considered and adopted.

In the House of Representatives, January 22, 1929.

Whereas, The people of the United States voted overwhelmingly on November sixth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, for the earliest possible upward revision of the existing tariff law, to the end that adequate protection be given to every American product, of farm and factory alike, that is subject to foreign competition in the markets of this country; and

Whereas, Much of our agriculture and many of the industries of Pennsylvania are suffering great and continuing losses, and in some instances face actual destruction, as a consequenc of importations which the rates of the existing tariff law are insufficient to restrict; and

Whereas, This displacement of American products and American employment not only has lessened or entirely suspended the earning powers of thousands of our citizens, with far-reaching effects, but has reached the point of seriously endangering the revenues of the Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved, (If the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby respectfullly petition President-elect Herbert C. Hoover to convene a special session of the Congress at the earliest practicable date subsequent to March fourth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, for the purpose of making such an upward revision of the existing tariff law as will insure adequate protection to every American product, and to American labor the opportunity for full-time employment at wages consistent with the American standard of living; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall forward a copy of this resolution to the Honorable Herbert C. Hoover, President-elect of the United States.

Ordered, That the Clerk present the same to the Senate for concurrence

RECESS.

The SPEAKER. The Chair will declare a recess until 2.30 o'clock this afternoon.

AFTER RECESS.

SENATE MESSAGE.

RESOLUTION CONCURRED IN BY SENATE.

The Clerk of the Senate being introduced, informed that the Senate has concurred in the resolution from the House of Representatives, as follows:

In the House of Representatives,
January 22, 1929.

Whereas, The people of the United States voted overwhelmingly on November sixth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-eight, for the earliest possible upward revision of the existing tariff law, to the end that adequate protection be given to every American product, of farm and factory alike, that is subject to foreign competition in the markets of this country; and

Whereas, Much of our agriculture and many of the industries of Pennsylvania are suffering great and continuing losses, and in some instances face actual destruction, as a consequence of importations which the rates of the existing tariff law are insufficient to restrict; and

Whereas, This displacement of American products and American employment not only has lessened or entirely suspended the earning powers of thousands of our citizens, with far-reaching effects, but has reached the point of seriously endangering the revenues of the Commonwealth; therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of Pennsylvania hereby respectfully petitions President-elect Herbert C. Hoover to convene a special session of the Congress at the earliest practicable date subsequent to March fourth, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine, for the purpose of making such an upward revision of the existing tariff law as will insure adequate protection of every American product, and to American labor the opportunity for full-time employment at wages consistent with the American standard of living; and be it further

Resolved, That the Secretary of the Commonwealth shall forward a copy of this resolution to the Honorable Herbert C. Hoover, President-elect of the United States.

SENATE

MONDAY, January 28, 1929.

The Senate met at 9 o'clock P. M.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Arthur H. James) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Our gracious Heavenly Father, we thank Thee for the faith of the Fathers of our Republic. We believe that this Republic of ours was conceived in prayer. We thank Thee for the Pilgrim Fathers who forsook their homes and located upon the stern and rockbound New England coast, who engaged in prayer upon the Mayflower and then entered into that solemn compact which was to govern them in their social relationships.

We thank Thee for the vision of the Founder of our Country, kneeling in prayer at Valley Forge and elsewhere, where edifices have been made sacred because of his devotions in them.

We thank Thee that when the Fathers of our Republic were about to frame the greatest governing instrument of the world, and when chaos hovered over them, the suggestion was made that Thy blessing be invoked; and that soon that most wonderful instrument, the Constitution of the United States, became clear and definite and in permanent form. And we thank Thee that it was in wisdom recorded that their successors should likewise look to Thee for guidance, and that those who officiate in the legislative halls of our country look Heavenward for protection so that they may continue the labors thus begun by the Fathers of our Republic.

We pray for Thy guidance tonight while this legislative body discharges its responsibilities.

Forgive us, we pray Thee, all of our transgressions.

And Thy name shall have all the praise. We ask it in Thy Holy Name. Amen.

Almighty God, Ruler of all nations, we enter into the gates of thanksgiving and into Thy Courts with praise. We acknowledge Thee as our God who hast made us and we not ourselves. Thou art our Creator, our Preserver, and bountiful Benefactor. We bless and magnify Thy holy name for national as well as personal blessings, and in the midst of all our thanksgiving let us remember our sinfulness and by Thy kindness lead us to repentance. Save us from national corruption; may we be delivered from the lust of material power and pride. May we receive the power of religious earnestness, the power of unity and harmony, and the power of prayer, and above all, the power of the Holy Spirit that we may recognize our Master as the Lord.

Let angels prostrate fall;
Bring forth the royal diadem

RECOMMENDING PASSAGE OF UNITED STATES NAVAL BILL.

Mr. HOWE offered the following resolution and asked unanimous consent for its adoption.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will read the resolution.

The Clerk read the resolution as follows:

In the House of Representatives, January 28, 1929.

Whereas, There is now pending in the Congress of the United States a bill providing for a Naval Construction program which, if passed and approved by the President, would add greatly to the power and efficiency of our Navy and make less probable the horror and dreadfulness of another war, and

Whereas, It is vital to the safety of our Nation that it should have a Navy second to none in power and efficiency, and necessary to our National standing and prestige that such Navy should be commensurate with our world commercial and political position, and

Whereas, A paid lobby of pacifists with a woeful lack of patriotic interest but a fullness of selfishness, is exerting every effort at Washington to block and prevent the passage of this measure which is so necessary to safeguard our maritime interests and our rights upon the seas, and

Whereas, It is proper that Congress should be informed as to the feeling and attitude of those who thus closely represent the citizens of the sovereign State of Pennsylvania on this most important legislation, therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania recommends to the Congress of the United States the passage of the Naval Bill now pending therein in its present form and without the elimination of the time limit provision, believing that to strike out the same would mean the substitution of paper ships for those of steel that are now necessary to restore our Navy to its proper standing among the navies of the world, and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Chief Clerk of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative in Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

The SPEAKER. Will the House give its unanimous consent to the adoption of the resolution? The Chair hears objection and unanimous consent is not granted.

Ordered, That the resolution lie over for printing.

RESOLUTION.

PROCURING AN APPROPRIATION FOR GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELD MEMORIAL ASSOCIATION.

Mr. SHEELY offered the following resolution which was twice read and laid over under the rules:

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION.

In the House of Representatives, January 14, 1929.

Whereas, the Act of Congress of July twenty-seventh, one thousand eight hundred and ninety-two, (27 Stat., 276), establishing the Gettysburg National Military Park in commemoration of the Battle of Gettysburg, which decided the fate of the Union, provided that

"The Secretary of War is hereby authorized and directed to deliver to the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial Association, at Gettysburg, Pennsylvania, specimens of the arms, equipments, projectiles, uniforms, and other material of war used by the armies in that battle (so far as may be practicable), for the purpose of exhibiting and preserving them for historical purposes in the museums at the house used by Major General Meade for headquarters, now owned by the said association, or at such other place as the directors of the association may deem proper. And that the transportation to Gettysburg be furnished by the Quartermaster's Department of the United States from the appropriation for the transportation of Army supplies," and

Whereas, The provisions of the Statute have never been accomplished, but this historic building has been used as a tenant house and occupied by various persons who have rented the farm to which it appertains, with consequent deterioration and fire risk, and

Whereas, This use and deterioration from action of the elements threaten destruction of this landmark, therefore

Be it resolved, (if the Senate concur), That our Senators and Representatives in the Federal Congress be requested to take early and vigorous action toward procuring an appropriation for the restoration and preservation of this important historic structure and the establishment of the museum auhorized by the said Act of Congress.

L. 198), entitled "An act to establish a county court for the county of Allegheny, and prescribing its powers and duties; regulating the procedure therein, and providing for the expenses thereof," as amended; by increasing the jurisdiction of the court in civil actions to twenty-five hundred dollars; by extending the power of the court over neglected and deserted children to include mothers and grandparents of such children; by authorizing said court to transfer certain cases in excess of its jurisdiction to the Court of Common Pleas; and by further defining the powers of said court.

And said bill having been read at length the first time,

Ordered, To be laid aside for second reading.

The SPEAKER. The Speaker takes great pleasure in assuring his friends from the County of Luzerne that he is very, very thankful indeed for this splendid gavel. The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Washington, Mr. Moore, on a question of parliamentary inquiry asks whether the tax on anthracite coal involved in the manufacture of this gavel has been paid. In view of the fact that the bill creating the tax has not yet been repealed, the Chair feels he can assure the gentleman from Washington that it has been paid.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I will.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, I would like to ask the Senator from Bucks County what effect this bill would have if the recommendation of the Salary Board Bill relative to salaries passes. This bill provides for another district attorney and fixes his salary and I would just like to ask what effect this bill would have in the event that the salary board's recommendation passes the Senate and the House.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, in answer to the Senator from Lackawanna, I would like to say it would not have any effect whatsoever. The salary board mentioned in this bill is the County Salary Board, whereas the salary board of which he speaks, I understand is the State Salary Board.

Mr. DAVIS. Mr. President, for the information of the Senator from Bucks, I would say that the recommendation of the Salary Board is to fix the salaries paid out of the County treasury, and fixes all salaries except the elective constitutional offices.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, of course if the contents of the bill of which the Senator speaks goes that far, then, of course, the salary of this assistant district attorney would be fixed by that board; however, it is a fact that the bill of which the Senator from Lackawanna speaks has not yet been passed and until it is passed we cannot do other than provide for the salaries of the assistant district attorneys, as is done by this bill, by the salary boards of the counties of the Sixth Class.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, I would like to interrogate the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit himself to be interrogated?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would be very glad to be interrogated by the President pro tem of the Senate.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President I would like to know the reason for more district attorneys in Bucks County. I had understood that after the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Act would become operative the jails would become empty, the criminal courts would be without work and there would be no more necessity for district attorneys, but in spite of that the Senator from Bucks County comes and asks for additional district attorneys.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, in answer to the Senator from Lehigh, the President pro tem of the Senate, permit me to say that instead of the conditions which he has described in connection with the Volstead Act and the Eighteenth Amendment, the situation in our courts in Bucks County has become such that it is absolutely necessary, first, that we should have an additional judge to try the criminal cases, and the other cases which clog up the courts in our County, and if we get the additional judge, as I think we will, we shall then need an assistant district attorney to function in the additional court room, after that additional judge has been provided for our County.

In direct answer to the Senator from Lehigh, I would say that our criminal business has increased many fold in the past ten years. Our criminal courts run two weeks each term instead of one week, and in addition, we are obliged to call in an outside judge to help our President Judge to try the criminal business now, which consists largely of liquor violations.

The PRESIDENT. Will the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, permit the Chair to interrogate him?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, I would be very glad indeed.

The PRESIDENT. Is Bucks County contiguous to Lehigh?

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, right next door, in fact, Lehigh was once a part of Bucks County.

Mr. SCHANTZ. Mr. President, fortunately it has been divorced.

Mr. BUCKMAN. Mr. President, the gratitude is mutual.

Mr. WEINGARTNER. Mr. President, I might say that I believe I represent the only Sixth Class county in the State today that has two judges. The condition which the Senator from Bucks, Mr. Buckman, anticipated in his county, has existed in our county and existed long before the Volstead act. That is, it was necessary to run, during the criminal court week, two criminal courts. We carry on a system there today of the district attorney naming some member of the bar for a particular term of criminal court. He tries the cases for that week or two weeks, as the case may be. The next term some other lawyer is named, and the next term another. As a matter of fact, it means that one of our courts is run with an assistant district attorney, by appointment of the court at the suggestion of the district attorney, whether there is any low for it or not, who, without any preparation for the trial of his cases at all, goes into court and the district attorney or the county detective hands him a case and tells him to try it. I am very much interested in this act, because it would permit counties to have a man in charge who is especially fitted to be an assistant district attorney and to become somewhat trained in criminal law, and when he goes into court to try cases he will be competent and ready to try them and will know something about the cases.

And the question recurring,

Shall the bill pass finally?

Agreeably to order,

The Senate proceeded to the third reading and consideration of Senate Bill No. 41, entitled:

An Act to amend sub-section third, section one of the act approved the ninth day of July, one thousand nine hundred and one (P. The SPEAKER (Aaron B. Hess) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Dr. Martin W. Schweitzer, offered the following prayer:

Holy, Holy, Holy, Lord God Almighty; Thou who sittest on Thy high throne in Thy majesty to Thee this morning we ascribe all praise and glory and honor. We bless Thee that we can come unto the throne of grace by faith. We bless Thee that Thou hast so far protected us during the past night and we thank Thee for the light of this new day. May Thy Holy Spirit guide and direct us in our sins and our burdens on this day and may we ever come to that state of fixed love and communion with Thee day by day. Today we are reminded of the fact that the angel of death has entered into various homes and especially when we commemorate the birthday of the late lamented president of this United States, William McKinley. Today we observe his eighty-sixth birthday. Thou Ruler of all nations, we thank Thee for his noble example as President of the United States in his office; we thank Thee that he was a loving husband and a dutiful son and so may we emulate his virtues in all our lives. Oh, God, we come unto Thee with humble and contrite hearts. We pray Thou will bless especially those of our number who are on sick beds of affliction, and bless the means that may restore them to their usual health. May we continue in faith, in health and in strength to honor Thee in our adversities. We ask it in His name. Amen.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Oh, Thou Eternal God and our Creator, we rejoice in the consciousness that we are living in a world full of Thy divine glory. May we realize that every place is hallowed ground; and may we, as the ancient law-giver did, take from off our feet the sandals of unbelief and sin, that we may hear Thee speak more distinctly to us, "Lo, set my people free!"

We believe Thou art interested in the liberties of our people. We thank Thee for American freedom. We do not believe that just laws are tyrannical but, rather, a guarantee of liberty to good citizens, safeguarding them in the pursuit of happiness, their welfare and their highest good.

May Thy truth, the ideals of Thy truth, govern this and all other legislative bodies in their deliberations and conclusions. We ask in Thy most Holy Name. Amen.

Come Thou, O God, and reveal Thy power. Take possession of this restless world and transform it by Thy grace. Set up Thy banner of the cross in every land and nation. Direct the forces of the government. Do Thou help us to realize that we are Thy people. Sanctify the institutions of learning and fill this world with righteousness and peace. Come Thou, O God, and reign over us with Thy love and power. We are weary of having our own way. Thy way is truth, Thy will is obedience, Thou art ever the God of mankind. Help us to realize that as we live and move and have our being in Thee, Thou wilt ever guide us. May Thou reign in each and every heart, and may Thy kingdom and Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. Tonight we beseech Thee to bless the Governor of this Commonwealth, the Speaker of the House, and all who take part in the transaction of the business in this House, that law and order may everywhere prevail. Guide us by Thy holy counsel, we ask it all in His name. Amen.

In the House of Representatives,
January 28, 1929.

Whereas, There is now pending in the Congress of the United States a bill providing for a Naval Construction programme which if passed and approved by the President would add greatly to the power and efficiency of our Navy and make less probable the horror and dreadfulness of another war and

Whereas, It is vital to the safety of our Nation that it should have a navy second to none in power and efficiency and necessary to our National standing and prestige that such navy should be commensurate with our world commercial and political position and

Whereas, A paid lobby of pacifists with a woeful lack of patriotic interest but a fullness of selfishness is exerting every effort at Washington to block and prevent the passage of this measure which is so necessary to safeguard our maritime interests and our rights upon the seas and

Whereas, It is proper that Congress should be informed as to the feeling and attitude of those who thus closely represent the citizens of the sovereign State of Pennsylvania on this most important legislation therefore be it

Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania recommends to the Congress of the United States the passage of the Naval Bill now pending therein in its present form and without the elimination of the time limit provisions believing that to strike out the same would mean the substitution of paper ships for those of steel that are now necessary to restore our navy to its proper standing among the navies of the world and be it further

Resolved, That a copy of this resolution be forwarded by the Chief Clerk of the House of Representatives to the Chief Clerk of the Senate and House of Representatives of the Congress of the United States and to each Senator and Representative in Congress from the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania.

Will the House adopt the resolution?

While Thou dost not have a visible kingdom, with Thy throne erected in some great world center, Thy throne is in the Heaven of Heavens; and we do pray that Thou mayest erect Thy throne in the hearts of our people, and rule and reign over us in that inner urge that Thou dost give us, so that Thy kingdom may come and Thy will be done on earth as it is in Heaven. The PRESIDENT PRO TEMPORE (Mr. Horace W. Schantz) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Our Gracious Lord, we thank Thee for this great Commonwealth of ours and for the blessings Thou has bestowed upon it. We thank Thee for the progress it has made. We realize as we look back only a short century in history that we passed from the simple conditions of living then to the more complex conditions of today.

We thank Thee for peace and prosperity, for the increase in population, for the increase of culture, for the enlargement of our industries. We realize that those who deal with them in legislative ways have larger problems upon their hands. We thank Thee for the select body of men who have been chosen to deal with these problems, and that they have kept pace with the march of events and bring ripened experience to the service of the State. We ask Thee to enable them to see clearly their tasks, and the pathway of duty, so that justice and fairness and equity will prevail. Grant them Thy guidance and we will give Thee all the praise. Amen.

The SPEAKER (Aaron B. Hess) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Rev. George P. Donehoo offered the following prayer:

Our Heavenly Father, we thank Thee this morning for the richness of Thy gifts and benefits to man. We pray Thee that we may realize that these gifts which Thou hast given to us are of no value to us unless we use them. That the starry heavens at night, the life giving sun in the daytime, and all of the glories and all of the blessings of the outside world are valueless to us if we do not use them. And so are all of the abilities of our minds and of our hearts and of our souls useless if we do not use them. Therefore help us to speak the kind words that we could speak and to do the kind deeds that we could do and to sympathize with each other and to help each other as we can if we do so. Be with the Speaker and the Members of this House this day. Be with them as they go to their homes: bring them back again in health and in strength to do the work of this great Commonwealth; we ask in Thy name. Amen.

SENATE

MONDAY, February 11, 1929.

The PRESIDENT (Lieutenant-Governor Arthur H. James) in the Chair.

PRAYER.

The Chaplain, Rev. Christian H. Shirk, offered the following prayer:

Oh, Thou Eternal God, we thank Thee for this great country of curs. Though we be of varied origins racially and as to creed and as to nationality the people of America enjoy the freedom that they have and are united in their loyalty to the flag that waves over them; and we pray that we may be held together as a nation in unity under Thy protecting care.

We thank Thee that our experiment in democracy has stood the test of the years so well, and that we are more united, perhaps, today than ever before in the nation's history.

We ask for Thy blessing upon this session tonight. May Thy guidance be granted in its deliberations. We ask in Thy most Holy Name. Amen.
